$150,000 City Blaze

Two officials of the provincial Fire Marshall's office are investigating a fire which cause about $150,000 damage early today at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Saanich fire chief Harold Gains said the blaze started in a storage room of a law office at 3490 Saanich Road.

Cause of the blaze is not known.

The fire was first noticed by a clean-up man in the Safeway store who turned in the alarm at 3.18 a.m.

Firemen were at the scene for more than four hours and had to cut through a ceiling to get at the fire.

"It was a hard fire to fight; the men did a terrific job stopping it," Gains said.

The offices of the law firm headed by lawyer Gary Tindall were gutted while the doctors' offices received damage from smoke and water when the searing heat burst a one-and-a-quarter-inch waterline in a false ceiling.

There was also some smoke damage to the Safeway store.

"It will probably take a couple of days to complete the investigation," said Gains. "There's a lot of sifting to do."

SECRET MOVES 'ILLEGAL'

Income Tax Files Probed by RCMP

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has apparently violated the Income Tax Act and used confidential income tax information to investigate everything from suspicious lifestyles to unemployment insurance cheats, a royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing was told Wednesday.

Under a secret 1972 agreement with the national revenue department, the information given the RCMP was supposed to be used to prosecute organized crime targets under the Income Tax Act.

The agreement itself may have no legal basis, since the Income Tax Act prevents the revenue department from giving out such information. A March 3, 1978, analysis by Supt. J.V. Cain of the RCMP legal branch concludes that only an amendment to the Act can allow any such information to be given the RCMP legally.

The commission was told the RCMP definition of organized crime was so broad that it could include a husband and wife conspiring together to cheat on unemployment insurance.

The definition, used to select 900 "organized crime" targets, says: "Organized crime means two or more persons concerting together on a continuing basis to participate in illegal activities either directly or indirectly for gain."

However the agreement apparently was subject to broad interpretations within RCMP divisions across the country. Possible violations were reported by five divisions — Halifax, Fredericton, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg — as a result of a survey this year for the royal commission inquiry.

The key question in the survey was whether any information received under the agreement had been used for purposes other than enforcement under the Income Tax Act.

Some of the replies:

—RCMP in Truro, N.S., were told a man from Ontario was "living beyond his means and flashing a lot of cash around and was possibly involved in drugs." The revenue department supplied information that indicated "the subject was financially secure and eliminated suspicions as to source of funds." The information went to the RCMP drug squad in Truro.

—Ottawa RCMP got from the revenue department the address of a suspect in an attempted kidnapping. The information was given to the Cornwall police department, which was investigating.

—In Winnipeg, the RCMP criminal intelligence section was provided with revenue department information including a suspect's job record, income, taxes paid and wife's name for unspecified purposes.

—RCMP investigating a suspected unemployment insurance cheat in Toronto asked tax officials for his address.

Tennis Tourney Entries Close

A last-minute rush of entries saved the women's singles event in the Fifth Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament. But the junior girls weren't so fortunate.

When entries closed, there were 43 names in for the women's but only 11 for the girls (between 14 and 18 age group). We had set a minimum limit of 16 entries for each event in the summer-long tourney, so the girls' event had to be cancelled. However, to give the girls a game they had the option of joining the women's draw and this resulted in a field of 54, well up on last year's 32.

Biggest field again, of course, is in the mens' singles where there are a whopping 128 players competing.

Price-scanners are on their way to Victoria supermarkets after successful test runs in Vancouver, Safeway relief district manager Rick Purnell said today.

"We don't have the timetable for Victoria yet but there is no doubt they will come fairly soon," he said.

The scanner experiment started at a North Vancouver Safeway in mid-April and in a Vancouver east-supermarket on May 10.

"Both experiments have been successful," Purnell said. "The company is very pleased with the results."

Scanners use a laser beam to read parallel black lines on cans and boxes, telling the computer what the product is. The supermarket has coded the price, which can be changed as often as necessary, into the computer.

The big saving, Purnell said, will be an end to the time-consuming process of price-marking each item in the store.

"There were a lot of human errors in the process. Sometimes the wrong price gets pasted on. There might be punching errors by the cashier. We're all human."

The scanner, however, is not. It doesn't - at least it shouldn't - make mistakes.

It also eliminates jobs — those of the clerks who would have pasted on all the prices.

Purnell said Safeway will study the price-scanning experiments at the two Vancouver-area supermarket for several months before deciding when to have a test run in Victoria.

"It's just a matter of time."

A number of stores in eastern Canada, including the giant Steinberg's chain, are also experimenting with the new price checking system.

Meanwhile, in the United States, only 250 of the nation's 32,700 supermarkets have scanners but the number increases almost daily.

The cost in New York is $12,000 for each checkout point but the money is recovered in wages that no longer have to be paid out to price-markers.

Some U.S. consumer groups have protested the changes because prices are no longer on the product.

However, most supermarkets going into the system retain a price on the shelf so consumers know in advance how much they will pay. In addition, when they go to the cashier, the price of each product flashes on a screen and then a full printout goes to the customer showing the name of the product and what the price is.

"This should help clear up a lot of confusion when the customer gets home," Purnell said. "Under the present system the customer just has a lot of prices with the letters GR (for groceries) beside them."

While the Vancouver experiment has been judged a success, results in New York have been mixed. Some stores find service just as fast while others report it is a bit slower.

Supermarket spokesmen say service will speed up once cashiers become more familiar with the system.

One additional saving for supermarkets, a New York company spokesman said, will be the end of guesswork at the cash register.

He said if a cashier isn't sure of the price, she sometimes makes an estimate and it is usually on the low side to be fair to the customer.

This costs supermarkets a large amount of money over a year and this guesswork will be eliminated by scanners.

East Bloc Anticipated Zare Raid?

LONDON (WP) — The Soviet Union has bought up a major share of the world supply of cobalt in recent months in apparent anticipation of a global shortage, according to dealers in the strategic metal here.

The shortage is now an accomplished fact. The abortive invasion of Shaba Province in Zaire has shut off 65 per cent of the world's cobalt supply for up to nine months. Cobalt is used in so-called super alloys required for jet engines, missiles and submarines.

All this year, dealers reported, the Soviets, Poles and East Germans have been "steady and substantial" buyers on London's free market. They got in well before the price rises of the past two months that have carried cobalt from $7 to $20 a pound, with more increases to come.

"They had a shrewd inkling of what was going to blow," said Luf Lubett, director of Ayrton and Partners and chairman of the Minor Metals Traders Association. "It was pre-emptive buying in expectations of a shortage."

In Washington, an administration source says there is increasing evidence that Cuban forces in Angola — already accused of training Katangan insurgents — encouraged and instigated the rebel invasion of Zaire's copper-rich Shaba province.

But the source would not elaborate and added: "We cannot make a categorical statement (proving the Cuban role)."

Earlier Wednesday, White House press secretary Jody Powell said the United States has gathered new evidence suggesting the rebels had been trained by Cuban forces. Cuba denies that role.

The free market in cobalt and other metals is small, with perhaps 20 dealers taking part. So information spreads rapidly.

Lubett's conclusion, however, is necessarily an opinion. Neither he nor the one or two dealers through whom the Soviets habitually buy know precisely how much

French Heading Home

PARIS (AP) — French Foreign Legion paratroops began their withdrawal from southern Zaire today, less than a week after recapturing the city of Kolwezi from invading rebels and aiding in the evacuation of trapped foreigners, the defence ministry announced.

Word of the withdrawal came on the heels of a Belgian proposal for an all-African peacekeeping force to ensure an uninterrupted flow of Zaire's mineral wealth to the West.

"We should find a Euro-African formula of protection to assure the security of our people working there," Premier Leo Tindemans told his parliament Wednesday.

"It could be done by the African states with logistic support of the nine members states of the European Economic Community," he said.

The French troops abandoned their pursuit of fleeing rebels Wednesday night, although five or six companies of rebel forces equipped with heavy weapons remained in an area about 10 kilometres west of Kolwezi, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, British newspapers reported today that rebels fleeing French paratroops clashed with Zambian forces Wednesday, but there was no sign of European hostages the rebels are believed to be holding.

A spokesman for the Congolese National Liberation Front, the political force behind the insurgents, said in Brussels they had captured seven French soldiers in their retreat from Kolwezi but denied reports they had seized white civilian hostages.

CLERK FOILS HOLDUP BID

An attempted robbery was foiled today when a counter clerk at Morley's Five-Point Pharmacy Ltd., 1273 Fairfield, called the bluff of two youths who claimed to have a gun.

Pharmacy manager Clair Morley said that a pair of juveniles entered his store about 11 a.m. and approached clerk Anne Straford who was at the counter.

"These two punks came in, about 16 or 17 years old, and one of them said 'My friend here's got a gun — give us all your money'."

Morley said instead of emptying the till, Stratford turned and called to him for help.

"I was in the basement and by the time I got there they'd taken off," said Morley.

He said Stratford never saw a gun and believes the whole thing was a bluff.

"It was a minor incident," he said. "But I'm glad it turned out the way it did."

Ginnell Goes To Lethbridge

Ginnell has been named to succeed Howie Yanosik as coach of Lethbridge Broncos of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Yanosik, who was with the Broncos just over one season, resigned his position earlier this month to return to private business.

Ginnell sold the Cougars, after a 3½-year stand, to Ray Harambourne last summer and took a "year off" from hockey. He opened a restaurant in the Cordova Bay area earlier this month.

Away on a fishing trip today, Ginnell was not available for commment but his wife, Wanda, said they haven't had time to decide if they will retain their business here.

In Lethbridge, Dennis Kjeldgaard, Bronco general manager, said he was looking for a coach who could make the Broncos a solid contender in announcing the acquisition of Ginnell, the fourth coach in five seasons since the Broncos moved to Lethbridge from Swift Current.

Ginnell started coaching in Flin Flon.

Bomb Scare Aborts Flight

CRANBROOK (CP) — RCMP here are investigating a bomb threat that forced a Pacific Western Airlines plane to return to Cranbrook Wednesday night after taking off on a flight to Vancouver.

RCMP conducted a three-hour search of flight 376 but no bomb was found. There were no further details.

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Two volunteer firemen were killed in a fire that swept a swimming supply firm today, spewing noxious and potentially deadly chlorine fumes over a square-mile area. Up to 30 firemen were reported injured.

Benchers Fight Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Law Society of British Columbia Wednesday asked the B.C. Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission from conducting an inquiry into the society's conduct.

The commission last week requested that the society hand over documents and files for the inquiry scheduled to begin Monday.

The commission also requested the society's files on B.C. Conservative leader Vic Stephens and lawyer Don Jabour, who were found guilty by the society of conduct unbecoming society members for advertising their legal practices.

The society, in challenging the authority of the Combines Investigation Act, has also asked for a court declaration that the act doesn't apply to the society, and a declaration that the society's secretary is under no obligation to appear at the inquiry or produce the requested documents.

Jabour has refused to consent to a decision made by a law society committee that he be suspended from practice for six months. Because Jabour refused to consent to the suspension, the punishment must be meted out by the law society benchers as a whole.

Pilot Kills Hijacker in Tussle

MARION, Ill. (AP) — A former Vietnam combat pilot wrestled a gun from a would-be hijacker and shot her to death while his helicopter reeled out of control 600 feet above the ground near the U.S. penitentiary at Marion.

Allen Barklage, 30, of St. Louis said Barbara Oswald, in her mid-40s, also of St. Louis, had ordered him to land Wednesday night in an exercise yard at the maximum-security prison where some of the most dangerous criminals in the United States are confined.

He quoted her as saying they would be carrying off three convicts.

Barklage said the woman chartered the helicopter in St. Louis under the pretense of flying to Cape Girardeau, Mo., about 56 kilometres beyond the prison, which is about 150 kilometres by air southeast of St. Louis.

About 30 to 40 minutes into the flight, he said, she pulled a .44-calibre pistol and ordered him to fly to the prison.

About four kilometres from the prison, Barklage saw his chance.

"She was trying to open the doors and she switched her weapon from her left hand to her right hand," he said. "She put her finger on the trigger guard and not on the trigger."

"I let go of the helicopter controls and let it do whatever it wanted," he said. "I grabbed for the gun and we had a 10- or 15-second struggle."

The Bell Jetranger II helicopter was pitching and turning wildly, he said. It was so erratic, "that I shot four times—shot all five times but one misfired—and I only hit her once."

"And she was only two feet away from me."

Barklage righted the aircraft and set it down about 25 metres from the entrance to the prison administration building.

Disarmament Body Urged

Times News Services

UNITED NATIONS — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France called today for creation of a new world disarmament body and endorsed a U.S. offer to provide early-warning systems to detect attacks.

Speaking at a special UN disarmament session, he said a world institute of disarmament, attached to the United Nations and patterned after the International Monetary Fund, should be established.

Giscard d'Estaing also proposed a meeting by all participants in the 35-country Helsinki security conference on disarmament in Europe to achieve "a genuine reduction in weapons within the geostrategic complex of Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals."

A third proposal called for studies on creation of a satellite monitoring agency for effective supervision of disarmament accords.

France for years has boycotted the 31-country Geneva disarmament committee out of dislike for the Soviet-American co-chairmanship.

The new organization Giscard d'Estaing and his government is proposing would have 30 to 40 members with a chairman elected for two years from among all the members except the big powers.

Giscard d'Estaing, who spoke on the second day of the five-week session, said he was prepared to back a suggestion Wednesday by U.S. Vice-President Walter Mondale, who told the session that the United States was ready to be the "eyes and ears of peace" in areas of possible conflict. Mondale said America could provide monitoring services like aerial photography and ground detection devices now working in Egypt and Israel.

Mondale mounted an unexpectedly sharp attack on the Soviet Union in his address, accusing the Kremlin of escalating the nuclear arms race.

In a wide-ranging review of U.S. arms control efforts, Mondale criticized Soviet activities in Africa and the Indian Ocean, and accused Moscow of staging a "continuing buildup of unprecedented porportions in Europe."

Trudeau will be outlining at the UN Friday the Canadian position on controlling the $400 billion-a-year international arms race. It will be his first speech at the UN as prime minister.

He will return to Ottawa over the weekend before going to the Washington NATO summit Monday.

CARTER SLIPS ON POLLS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Either Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan could beat Jimmy Carter if the presidential election were held today, but Edward M. Kennedy could defeat anyone from either party, an ABC News-Louis Harris Poll reported.

The poll, conducted last week, showed Ford defeating the president 48 percent to 43 percent. Reagan, the former California governor, would nose out Carter 47 percent to 46 percent.

Killing Amin Moral, But Not CIA's Job

CHICAGO (AP) — William Colby, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), says it would be proper for the Ugandan people to kill President Idi Amin and "it would be moral" for the CIA to help if the welfare of the American people "could somehow be related to it."

In an interview with Playboy magazine, Colby said that if a man is a total tyrant, someone under him has the right to destroy him.

"But that doesn't mean a separate country has a right to do it," he added.

Colby said it would be "a moral act" if the Ugandan people kill Amin, who has been accused of masterminding murders in his country. Asked whether the CIA would encourage such an act, Colby said: "No, that's different . . . . But helping them in what they want to do?

"There it would be moral if the safety and welfare of the people of the United States could somehow be related to it."

He added that it would be different if the CIA were to encourage such an act and denied that the agency would do so.

Colby told the magazine he doubts that Amin "will die a natural death" but added: "That's a prediction. I'm not saying that we're going to do anything."

The former CIA chief declined to say whether the agency currently has agents operating in Uganda.

Colby also said "it is quite possible" that some country will set off a nuclear weapon in the next 10 years.

"I don't think it's a concern about three fellows in a garage doing it," he said, but "the real problem is proliferation to smaller nations. If you give the bomb to somebody who would be irresponsible and use it, you have a serious problem on your hands."

Only five countries — the United States, the Soviet Union, China, India and France — acknowledge that they have exploded nuclear bombs. Others, including Israel, have hinted that they also possess nuclear weaponry.

Legislation 'Premature'

Capital Regional District board chairman Jim Campbell said Wednesday legislation to have regional directors appointed by councils rather than elected is premature.

Campbell said such a change should have been considered after completion of the provincial government's regional district committee's hearings

Police Pact Falters

The settlement worked out for a new two-year contract for Saanich police has broken down at the last minute over a difference in interpretation concerning the cost of living allowance.

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier said today the police union "dropped a bombshell on me yesterday afternoon" by claiming that the COLA provision be included in the base rate, so that the next contract in 1980 would be negotiated on that figure.

"The police board did not have that understanding at all and understood that the allowance was to be completely separate from the base rate," he said.

Couvelier said the board is seeking a legal opinion on the matter.

Meanwhile, a union spokesman said an emergency meeting of union members has been called for 8.30 p.m. tonight.

Terrorist Slain

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Security police marksmen gunned down a woman terrorist today 10 hours after she seized eight hostages at Karaj, 37 miles west of the capital.

Rifat Memaran-Benam was shot and killed by the marksmen as she tried to escape from the house where she had held the entire family of a 30-year-old doctor hostage since Wednesday evening.

The woman, whose description and age were not disclosed by authorities, fled from a police chase and broke into the house of Dr. Jafar Mofidi. "There she ordered the family at gunpoint to hide her and keep their mouths shut if police came in her pursuit," the first report on the incident said.

Police later discovered her whereabouts and surrounded the house.

The woman locked up the family, including two infants, in a bathroom and warned the police she would shoot them all if they made the slightest move.

At 4.30 a.m. today she herded out the family and emerged herself armed with a gun and grenade.

At that point, police marksmen shot at her and succeeded in isolating her from the hostages. The woman hurled the grenade at police, but was gunned down and killed on the spot.

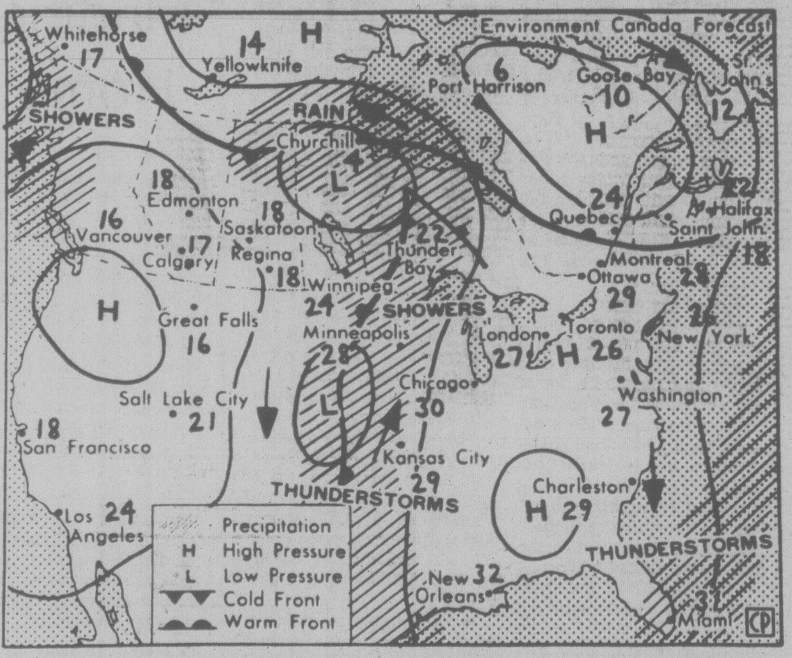

Map valid until midday Friday.

Coastal regions are affected by a weakening Pacific disturbance which is expected to bring high clouds over Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland during the evening. The system will then dissipate and have little effect on the Interior on Friday and mostly clear skies are expected behind it. However, another Pacific front will bring rain to the north coast Friday. Temperatures will be a little warmer in most regions Friday.

'SHE KILLED MY CHILD'

"The whole thing has come as a dreadful shock," said her husband, William Paton, 32. "She has killed my child."

His plea for a court injunction to prevent the abortion was turned down on grounds that Britain's abortion laws give the husband no right to decide whether the operation will be performed.

Paton said after the court decision Wednesday that he would appeal but his attorney, Barney Berkson, said such action would now be pointless.

Deficit Up For Travel

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a deficit of $1.64 billion on international travel during 1977, Statistics Canada said Wednesday.

Canadians travelling abroad spent $3.67 billion, up 17½ per cent from a year earlier, while foreign visitors spent only $2.03 billion, a 4.9 per-cent increase from 1976.

Of this $1.64 billion deficit, $755 million was a deficit on tourist trade with the U.S. and the remainder was with all other countries.

The figures released Wednesday show a sharply increasing deficit in tourist trade, particularly with the U.S.

In the first three months of this year, Canada's international travel deficit escalated to $918 million with all countries. Two-thirds of this deficit — $608 million — was with the U.S. and the remaining $310 million with all other foreign countries.

A total of 7.6 million Canadians visited the U.S. in the first three months of this year, taking advantage of warmer climates and cheaper prices, and only 4.1 million U.S. residents came to Canada.

HONEYMOON BAY WATER CONTAMINATED?

Mystery Illness Hits Campers

LAKE COWICHAN — Health authorities are investigating a report of a mysterious illness that struck several campers, including at least one Victoria family, at nearby Honeymoon Bay Resort on Cowichan Lake on the weekend.

A member of a Victoria area family was hospitalized with what Dr. A.F. Arneil, capital region health officer, is investigating as possible food poisoning.

But resort manager Ken Evans disagrees.

"I drink gallons of that water every day and I don't have this problem," he said.

A new water system installed in the 100-campsite resort has been used by campers without ill effect since April, he said.

Evans said six families came down with the ailment, which he believes to be a form of flu. The families were located on adjoining campsites and Evans believes it was mostly children who suffered the illness, which surfaced Monday.

Smith said any water contimination might be caused by sewage but Evans pointed out that the water supply is located away from the resort's septic field. Evans also suspects that the Victoria family and several dinner guests may have suffered food poisoning. Hamburgers were served to 14 people Monday night at that campsite, Evans said, and only three escaped illness.

The hamburger is being tested.

Crash Verdict Placed In Limbo

CRANBROOK (CP) — Transport Canada is unlikely to take any immediate action in response to the recommendations of a jury investigating the airplane crash that killed 43 persons here Feb. 11, a spokesman for the federal agency said Wednesday.

Bill Almolkey said the agency probably will not take any action until it completes its own investigation.

The jury decided Tuesday that Transport Canada should take a close look at landing procedures. It said a breakdown in communications between air traffic controllers, Cranbrook airport and Pacific Western Airlines was a major factor in the crash.

Almolkey said the Pacific region of Transport Canada established a safety committee immediately after the crash to study procedures at uncontrolled airports such as Cranbrook.

Jack Miles, PWA's head of operations and father of Chris Miles, the pilot who died in the crash, added his voice to the mounting call for an accident investigation committee independent of Transport Canada.

GIBRALTAR SHUTS MINE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Gibraltar Mines Ltd. will suspend operations at its open pit copper mine near Williams Lake on Friday, because it has been unable to negotiate a contract with the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers, the company said Wednesday.

Gibraltar said the union, which represents 400 workers, failed to put the company's final settlement offer to its membership for a vote, and engaged in disruptive actions at the mine.

The company said it was suspending operations because the situation prevented it from making decisions necessary to ensure proper operation of the mine.

LeBlanc Lenient In Fish Dispute

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc said Wednesday he is confident special negotiators can resolve fisheries problems between Canada and the United States and he is prepared to show some leniency about a Friday deadline.

But Canada can't wait long for a settlement with the U.S. because of disruptions to the seasons of Canadian fishermen, LeBlanc said.

However government officials have said they think Canada may have to close some of its waters to U.S. fishermen to get American legislators to address themselves seriously to problems affecting both coasts.

The special negotiators meet Friday in Washington with Canada expecting a U.S. response to its demand the U.S. comply with extended salmon fishing off the State of Washington as promised in a proposed 1978 interim reciprocal fisheries agreement.

Canada also wants the U.S. to exercise more control over its fishing vessels operating on the East Coast.

The U.S. has refused to allow increased salmon fishing off Washington because Canada did not close the Swiftsure Bank off southern B.C. when the U.S. asked it to. That Bank was closed last week with Canada saying it still didn't think the move was necessary. It also said the U.S. has never provided data to back up its claim for a conservation quota.

A notice of motion, however, has been filed in the Federal Court of Canada by the Pacific Trollers Association which is seeking an injunction to force the federal fisheries ministry to reopen the Swiftsure Banks to Canadian fishermen.

Meanwhile, a geography professor says there will be a fish war unless Canada and the United States reach agreement soon on reciprocal fishing rights.

Prof. William Ross of the University of Victoria told the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Geographers meeting in London, Ont., that an interim agreement would not solve the problems which he says are particularly bad on the west coast.

He said Canadian negotiators might sell themselves short in an effort not to upset the U.S. representatives.

INTEREST BOOSTED

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Finance Minister Evan Wolfe said Wednesday the provincial government is earning an extra $2 million a year in interest with more efficient money management.

Wolfe said in a speech to the Association of Canadian Financial Corporations that the extra money comes from "aggressive short-term investing by the government."

He said that before he took office, B.C. government agents banked their collections, which totalled about $1 million a day, and sent a cheque to Victoria once a week.

1. It's Canada's first handy-size printing calculator using inexpensive plain roll paper and a clear-printing cassette-type ink roller.
2. It's so small and lightweight (1 lb 6 oz) it fits comfortably into the palm of your hand or into your briefcase. Take it wherever you go.
3. It's cordless. Rechargeable batteries power the P10-D for one half roll, in average use.
4. It's two calculators in one. A large blue fluorescent display operates simultaneously with the printer, or on its own.
5. The P10-D gives you full desktop features, including 10-digit capacity, fully addressable memory, item counting, decimal point selection, add-mode for easy entry of currency calculation, non-add key for printing reference numbers without affecting calculations, percentage key, automatic constant and more.

The Canon P10-D. Just one in a dazzling line of calculators, including the new Palmtronic LC Quartz- a mini-wonder that's calculator, clock, stopwatch and alarm all in one. What else would you expect from Canon?

Now here – an affordable way to move up to radials.

ATLAS MK. IV THE AFFORDABLE RADIAL

Many people would like to move up from conventional belted tires to the smoother ride and improved handling given by radial tires, but, our steel-belted Mark V was too much tire for the kind of driving they did.

So, we found a solution to the problem.

MK. IV: THE AFFORDABLE RADIAL

It's the Mark IV — a new radial in the Atlas line. Mark IV is built with 2 tough Polyester body plies and 2 glass belts. The Atlas Mark IV radial gives you better cornering, ride and safety than conventional belted tires — at a price that makes it easier for you to move up to radials.

That's why we call it the affordable radial.

SUGGESTED RETAIL PRICES* (two or more)
TIRE TYPE	FROM (each)	TO (each)
RADIAL MK. IV	42.25	55.15
RADIAL (Steel) MK. V	49.34	73.47
BELTED MK. II	33.95	50.69
BIAS MK. I	29.17	41.13

MK. V: "STEEL BELTED" RADIAL

It's the king of the Atlas line. If you're into heavy mileage, highway driving, trailer hauling, country road driving, the Mark V steel-belted radial is for you. It has all the great radial features. And the extra margin of excellence you expect from premium quality radials.

CHOOSE AN ATLAS RADIAL FOR THE KIND OF DRIVING YOU DO

Mark IV or Mark V — the name Atlas on a tire is your guarantee of quality. What kind of tires should your car have? For the answer, it pays to see your Esso dealer, compare prices and talk radial tires. He's got the choice you need to fit your kind of driving.

Not Good Enough

So some baseball fans in Toronto booed the national anthem at Blue Jays games during the Victoria Day weekend, when the singer switched in mid-song to the French version.

It was a dumb, feeble protest — but against what, who knows? Bilingualism, the French language, separatism, Pierre Trudeau? Perhaps all of these. The average guy who goes out to the ball game doesn't write letters to the editor, doesn't read Hansard, probably hasn't thought very long or hard about The Issue of National Unity.

So he boos when someone sings O Canada in French. Ignorance of history (a French-Canadian patriot, Calixa Lavallee, wrote our anthem), a narrow and prejudiced attitude towards the central dilemma of our time, a shocking absence of simple charity in the biblical sense, simple impoliteness, all were read into this gut reaction from a section of Canadian opinion.

Predictably, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau called it "a sad commentary" on affairs. Premier Rene Levesque of Quebec, in Toronto for talks with his Ontario counterpart, in the first thing he told reporters, said bigots was a good word for those who booed the French at Varsity Stadium.

Trudeau said there was little to be done about things like that except for people to continue singing O Canada in both languages until they "slowly attune their ears to the reality that there are two languages in Canada and two main linguistic groups.

"This is a political and social reality that is not perceived well in every part of the country. Hopefully this kind of incident will further the education and cause a correction of that kind of booing."

But this sort of pious hoping and hand-wringing is just not good enough. It does not seem to have gotten through to the prime minister and his cabinet that French, bilingualism, Quebec, etc. are not very popular among large sections of the public.

Yes, we agree with him that it is sad that such hateful emanations of prejudice abound, but they are heartfelt statements on what many people perceive to be a French "takeover" in Canada. That this is mythical, nonexistent and can be demolished by factual arguments is probably repeated dozens of times a day in the prime minister's office as his staff open the mail.

But the reality hasn't gotten through to much of the Canadian public. Trudeau and other public figures may disdain to hammer repeatedly at the obvious, but that is what needs to be done. No arrogant, stern lectures, please. A few public speeches stating the bare facts — that what has occurred in the 1970s is no "takeover" but a process of equalization that may yet prove to been too little and too late.

A Classic Dilemma

A classic dilemma is illustrated by the latest controversy surrounding government moving public service jobs from the Victoria area to other parts of the province.

As NDP MLA Charles Barber and Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier note, quite properly, the moves have a serious impact on the economy of the Victoria area, especially when they take place in large numbers, as appears likely to happen with the decentralization of the B.C. Forest Service. It's been suggested that as many as 800 workers could be transferred out of the Victoria in that reorganization.

It seems harsh for the provincial government to take steps it knows will hurt an area's economy, especially if it knows also that the economy isn't in the best of shape to begin with.

But against that must be placed the need for greater government effectiveness over-all, a need that is presumably being met by the transfers. In the case of the Forest Service, for instance, it is utterly clear that management has been far too centralized for decades. Forests as far away as the Yukon border have been managed by bureaucrats in Victoria. The decentralization planned by the ministry is long overdue.

Barber's idea of a job-for-a-job (the government should transfer one job to the Victoria area for each one it transfers away from Victoria) is fine in theory, but breaks down in practice over a rather basic question: where are the jobs to be moved to Victoria to come from? In a time of restraint it is nonsensical to expect government to create hundreds of jobs to meet the conditions of such a plan. It is equally nonsensical to expect the government to disrupt their own administration and the lives of many civil servants by transferring them to Victoria when there is no demonstrated need for the move within the public service.

That leaves the government squarely on the spot — hurt the Victoria economy or refrain from making moves to improve its own effectiveness. It's a no-win situation but, much as we hate to say it, the government's first responsibility is probably to the better working of its administration as a whole, not to the economy of a single area.

FRED CLEVERLEY

Leader Trying for a Miracle

WINNIPEG — Will a 49-year-old Manitoba English professor be able to bring a national image to Social Credit, the political movement that has been confined, at the federal level, to Quebec for the past 13 years? More important, will he be able to command the respect of the Quebec members, who now hold the only tangible evidence of political success?

If Lorne Reznowski fails to accomplish these twin objectives, it will not be for lack of enthusiasm. In fact, his very enthusiasm for the principles on which Social Credit was founded in Canada may prove to be his undoing.

Reznowski has almost all the qualifications necessary for a successful Canadian political leader. His family has neither English nor French as its mother tongue, but he speaks both fluently, often switching in mid-sentence.

His oratory is superb, a mixture of the emotionalism of John Diefenbaker, the persuasiveness of Robert Thompson and the delivery of Tommy Douglas.

He presents a convincing and handsome appearance on television, and has no hesitation about parading his wife and five children before the cameras.

In Touch with Times

In many ways, Lorne Reznowski is in touch with the times. He stands firm on family and issues of morality, and has a touch of law-and-order that should sit well with what everyone calls the silent majority.

With so much going for him, the new national leader of the Social Credit party shows naivety bordering on political madness by insisting on talking about basic Social Credit principles, including funny money theories.

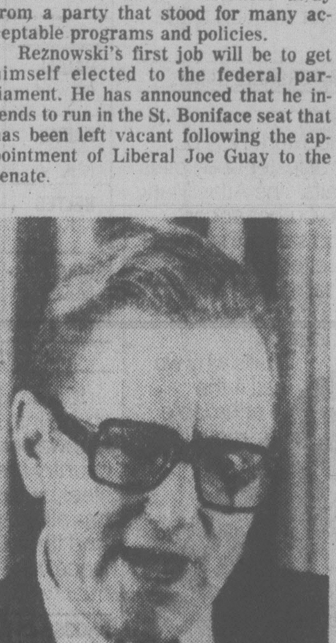
In his acceptance speech after he was chosen leader by 600 delegates (300 from Quebec) who attended the Winnipeg convention, Reznowski lumped "unscrupulous bankers" in with abortionists and homosexuals as his primary targets for attack. It was as if he was determined to wave his own personal red flag at the financial world, a flag that has been carefully hidden by successful Social Credit politicians at the political level in the west.

Although Premier Bill Bennett of British Columbia heads a government that carries the Social Credit name, he never as much as pays lip service to the funny money theories that were part of the foundation of the party.

If it were not enough that the new leader so firmly believes in the upset of the present financial system, the problem grows because he will not stop talking about it. During the flurry of open-line appearances and interviews that followed his election, the hosts had a difficult time limiting Reznowski's remarks.

It was precisely these financial theories that drove westerners away from a party that stood for many acceptable programs and policies.

Reznowski's first job will be to get himself elected to the federal parliament. He has announced that he intends to run in the St. Boniface seat that has been left vacant following the appointment of Liberal Joe Guay to the senate.



LORNE REZNOWSKI
. . . can he lead Socreds

The betting in Winnipeg is that Reznowski will probably run fourth in any St. Boniface contest, dropping behind the New Democrat candidate who is not expected to figure in the real battle in the constituency that will be fought between the Liberals and the Conservatives.

While he is attempting to achieve personal victory, Reznowski will also face the problem of reorganizing his party outside Quebec. Social Credit has consistently attracted fringe candidates who are rarely taken seriously.

If the new leader achieves the miraculous, gets himself elected and manages somehow to get other Social Credit candidates elected in the west, he will still be facing a much larger problem in dealing with the Quebec wing.

Reznowski's election was not without its problems. The interim leader of the federal Social Credit Party, Quebecer Gilles Caouette, resigned his temporary position in protest against the convention being held in Winnipeg and did not attend.

Another Quebec Member, Rene Matte, left the party on the same issue, although the impression in Winnipeg was that he was not wanted because he insisted on Social Credit representing the voice of Quebec separatism in the federal parliament.

It is hard to say whether Caouette would have supported Reznowski if the convention had been held in Eastern Canada, and the new leader took great pains to point out his long-standing friendship with the man who had served as interim leader, and who was the son of a former leader.

Reznowski's initial plans for dealing with Quebec include the suggestion that the Quebec wing holds its own leadership convention, and produce a man who would not only head the wing but also become, automatically, deputy national leader.

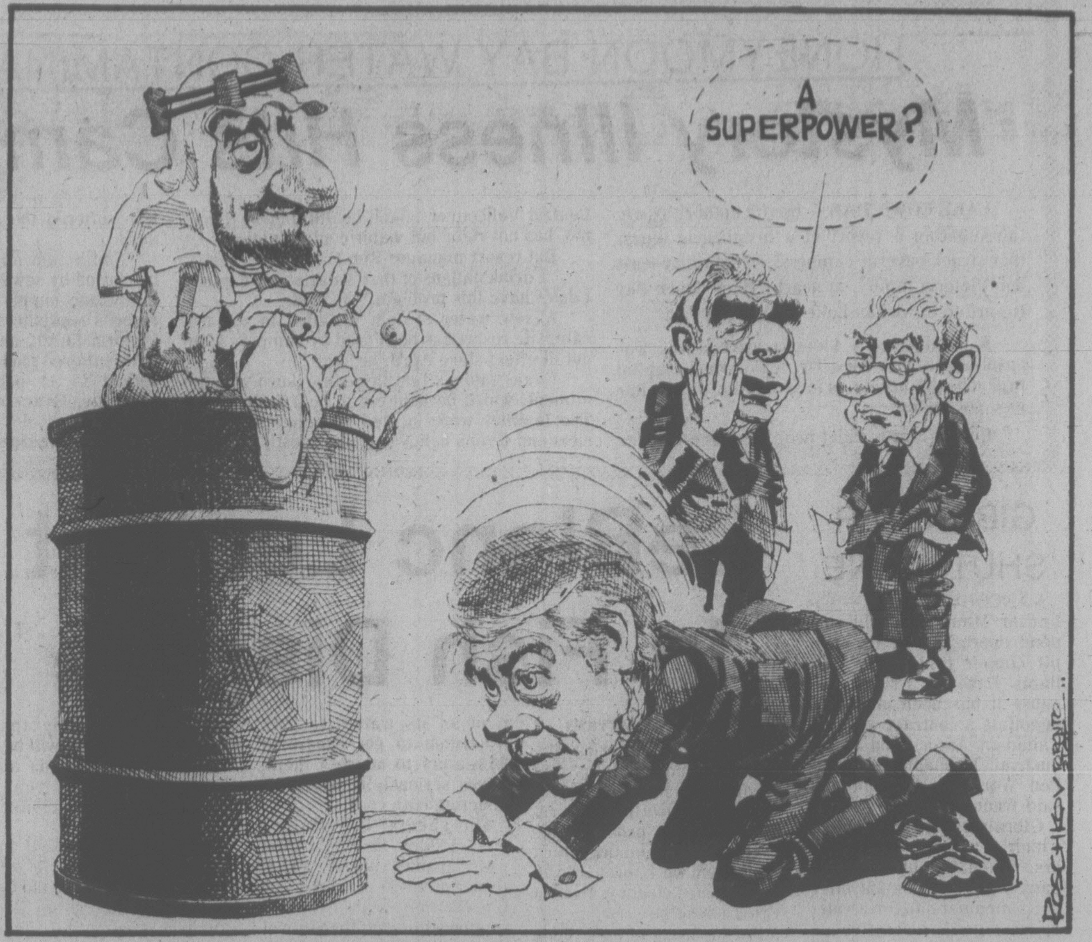
Dual Leadership?

But the presence of such a man might produce more problems than solutions. During an April policy convention in Winnipeg, one which broke up without deciding the issue of where and when the national leadership meeting should be held, Gilles Caouette warned that a leader from English Canada would be unacceptable to Quebec.

Caouette said it might be possible to water the wine a bit if the English leader were bilingual, but said his preference at that time was for a dual leadership, one from English Canada and the other from Quebec. He said that in any federal election, the leader who could produce the most successful candidates would become prime minister, and the other would become vice-prime minister.

Given Social Credit's chances of success in a federal election, Caouette's suggestion is probably a hypothetical one.

But Caouette pinpointed the real problem. That is whether an English professor from Manitoba can ever win the love and affection of members of his chosen political party who live elsewhere and who elect the only members of parliament representing that party?



A SUPERPOWER?

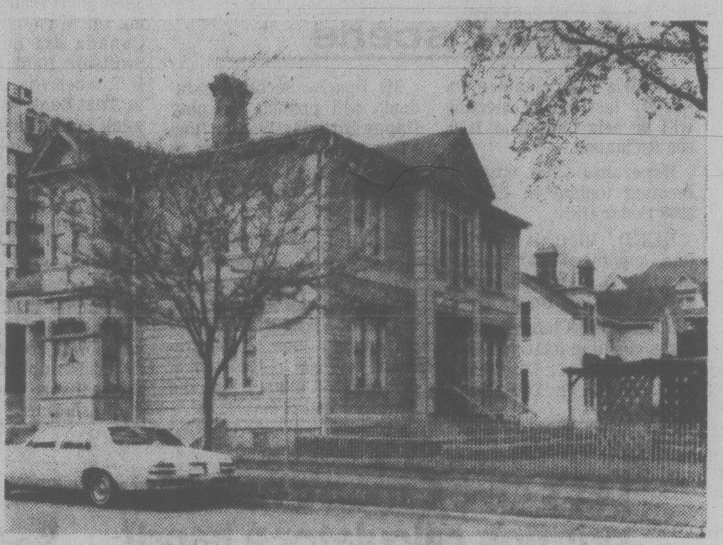
Heritage Houses

Once again, several important heritage houses are going to be destroyed with little protest: 321 and 327 Belleville Street. It shows just how little importance city hall puts on heritage in this city, as well as the appearance of the Inner Harbor. Amidst the bureaucracy at city hall are timid and apathetic people. Ald. Bob Wright is quoted as saying "the city's entire heritage program may be destroyed by Bawlf's badly worded legislation," yet also "these are not the houses to go to war on." He is not only hypocritical and refuses to take blame; he actually voted against designation.

As a part of a team which researched and photographed heritage buildings for 10 months in the Victoria area, I found information on both these structures which proves their historical and architectural significance: 321 Belleville was built in 1875 by Graham James Clark, a Scottish Cariboo pioneer. (He operated a planing mill and sash and door factory at Fort and Langley.) It later became the CP ticket office. 327 Belleville was built in 1877 by Alexander Blair Gray, another Scot. James Syme was the architect and this is his only building left. It was for years the home of Chief Justice and Mrs. Gordon Hunter.



Judge Hunter's house (left), mansion next door threatened by demolition.

Not only are these two of the oldest homes in the area, they lend character to an otherwise unsightly and motel-cluttered Belleville Street. If these houses are not historically important, which are? And just how long will it be before the Captain's Palace and others, go? Should these two be demolished, I see little hope for the rest of our heritage structures. Victoria City Hall is proving itself a dismal failure in this regard. — Mary Ann Baxter, Victoria.

Congratulations

As a most interested paraplegic I would like to offer Municipal Affars Minister Hugh Curtis my sincere congratulations and gratitude for his imaginative new program to provide transportation for the physically handicapped by equipping buses with lifts. I know that he is aware that transportation is the key factor in all programs of employment, recreation and in fact, normal everyday living. Physically handicapped people should now experience a much improved lifestyle thanks to the equal opportunity to use public transportation that the new plan will provide.

This new service will be particularly welcome in the Greater Victoria area which has one of the highest per capita ratios of physically handicapped people in B.C. if not Canada itself. I believe that British Columbia will be the first province in Canada to acquire this type of bus and thus once again is pioneering an innovative and excellent social program. — Kenneth B. Abbott-Smith, 701 Birch Road, Sidney.

Rape Relief

Mayor Couvelier may indeed by a dirty old man, as he himself suggested. His remarks concerning Trisha Mary-Moon and the Rape Relief Centre's grant application, quoted in the Times of May 10 were not only insulting, ridiculous and completely incredible, but they were also destructive, sexist and — last but not least — the most ill-conceived bunch of neanderthal, misguided baloney I have ever heard in my life.

He has done nothing but make more difficult the task of the Rape Relief Centre, its staff and volunteers, who have worked so hard to give rape crisis intervention and educational services the credibility, respect and support they so urgently require in our ever-increasingly violent society. It is the women of Victoria — and particularly those who are victims of sexual assault — who will suffer not only as a result of his comments, but the committee's refusal to grant the requested sum to the Rape Relief Centre.

The Rape Relief Centre was not applying to receive public funds to increase its staff, paycheques or budget, or to empire-build, but rather to enable it to keep up to the increasing demands put on their services by the public, the school system and government agencies, in the face of staff cutbacks and an almost impossible budgetary system. — S. L. Murphy, Victoria.

Regional Gov't

Has Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis received the final report of the commission studying B.C.'s regional districts? If not, why has he (1) introduced (Municipal) Act amendments pertaining to regional board representation: (2) forced an amalgamation vote in Duncan and North Cowichan?

When the idea of regional districts was first mooted, many of us saw it as a move towards local input into governing unorganized areas. Instead it has evolved into a fourth level in the country's wasteful and overburdening governmental structure.

Vancouver and Victoria areas could perhaps be better served by a metropolitan type of government; elsewhere in the province restructuring should be studied, based on community of interest in its various economic and socio-geographic aspects, with no overlapping between municipal and regional areas and authority. In Cowichan for instance, perhaps Chemainus should be incorporated as a village; some parts of North Cowichan amalgamated with Duncan, and some other parts revert to unorganized (regional) status. — I. M. Weffar, Chemainus.

Heroin Treatment

The Alcohol and Drug Commission's proposed compulsory treatment of heroin addicts and alcoholics is not only a dangerous attack on the criminal justice system, but one which would seem ridiculous if not frightening.

Apart from the fact that these first offenders would then have a prison record, anyone who has any knowledge of the treatment of these illnesses will tell you that people just want to get help and ask for it.

The Donwood Clinic for Alcoholism in Toronto (which hopes to add drug addiction in the near future) will not accept a patient unless he or she requests it. Their percentage of cures is very high. If the B.C. government allotted money to such a clinic in this province, run by experienced doctors, nurses and nutritionists in that field as does the province of Ontario, they would not only establish cures, but give the patient the feeling that he was battling an illness and not contributing, perhaps, to some prison already badly run and overcroweded.

I would also suggest they run a four- or five-day course for the benefit of the patient's family and employers in general, as is done in Ottawa. The families would learn just how the patient is trying to cope during his recovery and the employers probably find that through help they would have less absenteeism in their offices and works. — Mrs. D. Clark, 2458 Dunlevy Street.

No Coverage

On Mother's Day, May 14, the local Pro-Life Society organized a Right-to-Life rally which was attended by hundreds of people. I was surprised to find no report whatsoever of the event in your newspaper.

This rally showed that the pro-life movement is not just a small group of fanatics but a growing number of concerned citizens who are opposed to abortion as a means of birth control and the slow dysthanasia forced on some defective newborn babies. Why would you want to withhold this fact from your readers?

Why is it that the press practically denies the existence of the pro-life movement which is very much alive and kicking (I learned through a letter to the editor that, some time ago, a million-signature petition opposing abortion was presented to the federal government)?

Could it be that some editors biased in favor of abortions presume that the less there is said or written about a certain subject (in the case of abortion it is literally a question of life or death for thousands of unborn children) the less people start thinking seriously about the matter and, therefore, there is less protest? — Ruth Warburton, 2848 Dufferin Avenue.

Bribery, Corruption Undermine Soviet Society

By CRAIG WHITNEY

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union is a society of pervasive governmental control, where the state runs everything and the police have almost unlimited power.

It is also a society of pervasive corruption, where officials embezzle hundreds of millions of dollars a year from state enterprises and where a policeman is willing to look the other way if the bribe is right.

Lenin called bribery "the worst enemy of the revolution."

Almost 50 years later, Nikita Khrushchev tried to stamp out corruption — "this disgraceful survival of the past" — by ordering the death penalty for serious bribery.

Today, corruption remains an inescapable fact of daily life throughout the Soviet Union.

A ruble or two will persuade a uniformed Moscow traffic policeman to forget that he saw the driver jump a red light.

For 80 rubles ($115), a clerk in the neighborhood department store will sell a pair of imported shoes under the counter, after everyone has been told the shoes have been sold out.

For 300 rubles ($435), "00" licence plates — a status symbol normally reserved for the powerful and privileged — have been issued to people with the right connections.

For 2,000 rubles ($2,900) above the regular $11,000 purchase price, one can get a new Zhiguli, a Soviet-built Fiat, without having to wait the usual year or more.

Grant permits

And for 5,000 to 10,000 rubles, an influence-peddler will try to persuade a member of a local city council to grant a permit for someone to live in Moscow. The privilege is worth the price to thousands of people in remote provincial cities where there is not even fresh meat in the markets.

"For bribes," Khrushchev said in a speech in 1962, "state funds are squandered, housing accommodations are granted unlawfully, plots of land are allotted, pensions are granted, students are admitted to colleges and even diplomas are issued.

"We can and must put an end forever to bribery and other disgraceful phenomena," he declared.

But recent interviews with scores of Soviet citizens and a daily flow of revelations of corruption in the official press leave little doubt that Khrushchev's call for reform was not answered. All the abuses he mentioned continue today. But by now a suggestion of helplessness runs through the leadership's calls.

The scale of crimes of embezzlement is a carefully guarded secret today. Only once, in a speech by Khrushchev in 1962, were the dimensions of the problem disclosed. He revealed that 56 million rubles (the equivalent of $81 million now) had been swindled from state enterprises, just in the cases prosecuted before the courts in the first half of that year.

Sixteen years later, crimes involving hundreds of thousands of rubles are being reported every week in the press, in Pravda, Izvestia and local papers from every section of the country.

The reasons for corruption and bribery in the Soviet Union cover the spectrum of human weakness. But there is one underlying cause: This is a society of shortages caused by an inefficient bureaucracy. And bribery and corruption are sometimes the only way to get something. But the practices corrode public respect and ideological confidence in the system.

"This is a society in deep crisis," said Lev Kopelev, a former Marxist whose belief in the system was shattered when he emerged from nine years in Stalin's prison camps. "It is part of a general collapse of all our ideological and moral values."

At the top

A Soviet journalist loyal to the system said: "There isn't much the leadership can say about corruption today because everybody at the top is raking off whatever he can. To admit that corruption is widespread would be to admit that the country has stopped being revolutionary."

But after a brief period of revolutionary purity, the Communists themselves succumbed to the blandishments of absolute power. Bribery at all levels, and skimming off the top for those in positions of authority, became firmly entrenched under Stalin, who came from what most Russians still regard as the "capital of corruption" — the Caucasian Republic of Georgia.

The national economy suffers hundreds of millions of dollars every year in losses from embezzlement. But it is the everyday practice of bribery in its various forms that causes the real damage — to standards of decency, civility, the Communist ideal of "the new Soviet man."

There is such a welter of bureaucratic rules and restrictions in Soviet life that any lowly official is often in a position to mete out punishment or withhold some necessary permission or document from citizens with nowhere else to turn. What the regulations won't allow suddenly becomes possible for a little money under the table.

Like their colleagues in many U.S. cities, Russian policemen, who make as little as $140 a month, are sometimes unable to resist the temptation to supplement their income with bribes.

Doctors and medical workers, whose average wage is 104 rubles a month ($151), are not averse to extra money. And the better the doctor the more willing are the patients to ensure good treatment by giving a "present."

And every sales clerk is a government employee, for instance. Bribing one to avoid standing in line for scarce items, or just to find out when a shipment of oranges or imported Western shoes will go on sale, is established practice.

"Money has no real value here," a social scientist said. "Even a bottle of good vodka is more of a convertible currency than the ruble."

One of the first surprises for any newcomer to the Soviet Union is learning how much influence he can have with a bottle of vodka.

A plumber will drop whatever he is doing to fix a leaking faucet and an overburdened repairman will find time to take on one more job.

Even customs officials will sometimes be lenient for a bottle of premium Stolichnaya, which is sold for foreign currency here but is no longer available for ordinary rubles.

The special ruble coupons that foreigners and some privileged Soviet citizens get can be used in special stores to buy things like imported food, sheepskin coats from Finland and shoes from France and West Germany. The coupons are among the most desirable black-market items in Moscow because they buy four to five times more than ordinary rubles.

Official permits are required for so many things that some minor official with power of approval is always in a position to ask for or take a bribe.

Vladimir Bakharev, a musician, said that when he was working as an orchestra conductor during the 1960s he had to agree to pay off the director of the State Concert Agency to get any engagements.

He was given 10 engagements in 10 years and made a total of only $44.

Mormons Face Crisis Over Choice of New 'Prophet'

THE ECONOMIST

REDFORD . . . stirs things up

SALT LAKE CITY — Robert Redford is perhaps Utah's most famous resident — but he is probably less universally popular in his adopted state than in any other in the union. True, he has built a prosperous ski resort, and named it Sundance, after another famous Utahan celebrated in his best known movie. But he is an outspoken environmentalist, and his and his wife Lola's frequent interventions in local controversies are not widely appreciated in a state which determinedly puts economic growth first and the protection of its spectacular scenery a poor second. Yet Redford seems determined to stir things up in what is now arguably America's most conservative state.

The strength of Utah's conservatism is at least partly due to the dominant position of the Mormon church. Utah's government is often described as the only theocracy left in the West — a misnomer, as leadership in church and state has been separated ever since the days of Brigham Young, who doubled as prophet and governor of the then Utah Territory. Yet if the Church of Latter Day Saints does not actually control the state house, it accounts for much of what exists in Utah, including its material wealth.

It owns a large chunk of downtown Salt Lake City, including all the more prominent builings, the main hotel, a giant shopping complex (the ZCMI — or Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institute, which calls itself the world's first department store), one of the two daily newspapers and a local television station. It tithes its members for one tenth of their incomes, and the church was recently included in a list of the 50 largest business corporations in America, with assets of more than $2 billion and a total annual income (including tithes) of $1 billion.

The Mormon church now claims a worldwide membership of 4,000,000 growing at the rate of 200,000 a year (fastest growth points: Britain and Brazil). More than two-thirds of Utah's population of 1,235,000 are Mormons, half of them strict Mormons — tithes-paying, non-smoking, non-drinking (eschewing tea and coffee as well as alcohol). The remainder, known familiarly as "Jack Mormons", take their church membership less seriously. About 30 per cent of Utahans are non-Mormons, known collectively as Gentiles, though they include a small Jewish minority.

The Latter Day Saints, who combine a credulous religiosity with a large dose of practical commonsense and formidable powers of application, do not believe in putting all their eggs in one basket. If the Republican party, which returns both of Utah's senators, is dominated by Mormons, so to only a marginally lesser extent are the Democrats, who hold the governor's office. Certainly Utah Democrats tend to be on the conservative side, none more so than Representative Gunn McKay, nephew of a former prophet of the Mormon church, and one of the most conservative Democrats in congress.

But what liberals there are in Utah are usually found in the Democratic party. Most of them are Gentiles or Jack Mormons, and many of them are associated with the University of Utah, a state university with a deservedly good academic reputation.

The Mormon church encourages political participation among its members, which may account for Utah having the highest voting turnout in the country. Yet it normally shies from taking a stand on national political issues — partly as a result of its unhappy experience in 1936, when it condemned the candidature of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who was then given a record majority by Utah voters. It was not for another 40 years that the church took the risk of courting a similar rebuff. Yet in October, 1976, the leaders of the church formally declared their opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment: since then they have borne much of the brunt of feminist hostility.

The ERA needs to be ratified by 38 states before it can take effect: it has been stuck for some time at 35 and its supporters have noted that a block of three western states are significant among those holding out. One of these is Utah, the others Arizona and Nevada, where Mormon influence is also strong. A fourth western state with many Mormons, Idaho, has voted to rescind its earlier ratification.

The church's opposition to the ERA is based on its belief that the first duty of mothers is to raise their own children rather than to pursue careers. Mormons are strongly in favor of large families, though polygamy was officially abandoned in 1890 (it is still practised by splinter groups, excommunicated by the church). The words of a Mormon leader, Elder Neal Maxwell, at last month's annual conference of the church are typical of its attitude. "The act of deserting home in order to shape society is like thoughtlessly removing crucial fingers from an imperilled dike in order to teach people to swim", he said. Yet the Mormons deny that they are against women's rights as such, and point to the fact that Utah women won the right to vote in 1870 — earlier than in any other American state.

Presiding over the church is its president and prophet, the 83-year-old Spencer Woolley Kimball. By Mormon standards he is not a particularly elderly prophet, for although the Mormon church is not a theocracy it is certainly a gerontocracy. His immediate predecessor, Joseph Fielding Smith (a great nephew of the founder of Mormonism, Joseph Smith) was already 93 when he became prophet; his predecessor, David McKay, died aged 96.

The choice of elderly — and sometimes arguably senile — prophets is dictated by the practice of the church's Council of Twelve, whose duty it is to pick a new prophet whenever the incumbent dies. In theory, they may choose any member of the Mormon church: in fact they have invariably chosen the longest-serving member of the council. At present the heir apparent is Ezra Taft Benson, who served as secretary of agriculture throughout Eisenhower's presidency and who has been a member of the council continuously since 1943.

There is widespread apprehension among the more liberal Mormons at the prospect of Benson, who is now 78, succeeding Kimball. He is a member of the extreme right-wing John Birch Society, and his succession could lead to the biggest crisis in the church since its pioneering days. Like the Pope, the Mormon prophet is empowered to make ex cathedra judgments, based on divine revelation. Many Mormons fear that their consciences would be stretched to the limit by the types of judgment Benson might make. Benson probably represents a far more potent threat to the Mormon interest in Utah than the disrespectful Redford or any of his fellow liberals.

Mythical Monster of Politics

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

BENNETT . . . Ogopogos' leader

When you have just been made the head of a political party, you are in a pretty strong position to start unmasking impostors. Federal Social Credit Party Leader Lorne Reznowski has pointed a denunciatory finger to the West and declared that the group led by British Columbia Premier William Bennett should not be mistaken for the real thing.

Mr. Bennett's outfit, popularly known as the Social Cedit Government of B.C., is lacking — by Mr. Reznowski's definition — the credentials necessary for acceptance as even a distant relative of the national party of the same name. Maybe something of the kind existed out there once, but it stands accused of no longer following the party's traditional economic policies.

Out of the goodness of his heart, Mr. Reznowski has tried to find a suitable name for the party led by Mr. Bennett, and he has come up with the Ogopogo Party — named after the mythical monster said to live in B.C.'s Okanagan Lake.

This may not be entirely kind. Ogopogo, like the spelling of its name, is said to look the same from either end, making it difficult for people to tell which way it is headed. There are parties who have something of this characteristic, but they don't brag about it.

What the B.C. Socreds probably could brag about is their ability, like the serpent-like Ogopogo, to swallow their own tails, or, perhaps more accurately, to swallow other people's tails. They came to power for the first time many years ago because of a last-minute switch by a batch of long-term Conservatives to stand as Social Credit candidates. When briefly displaced, much later, by the New Democrats, they recaptured the government by swallowing the Liberals. Ogopogo is not considered, in fact, to be all bad by many people. He may be good for the tourist trade, and the monster of that name was said to be revered by Indians — an accomplishment still unmatched by any government in the history of Canada.

In any case, it might be a mistake to become too occupied with names and their significance in politics. A politician can be a Progressive Conservative without being at all progressive. He can belong officially to Social Credit, without being at all creditable.

Liberals are — as they themselves would be the first to acknowledge — in a class by themselves, though by no means easy to define. Mr. Reznowski may already have given them palpitations by his suggestion (some might say accusation) that federal Finance Minister Jean Chretien's thinking is showing Social Credit tendencies.

LENDERS RAPPED

Housing Minister Hugh Curtis criticized banks and lending institutions Wednesday for failng to help mobile-home dealers and buyers despite the security provisions of the new Mobile Home Act.

"The failure of institutional lenders to adapt their procedures to the registration system established by the act could cause irreparable damage to the mobile-home industry," he said in a news release.

"While the act will require lenders to alter their loan procedures to some extent, I am disappointed that many have taken no steps to do so, despite a series of meetings with representation of this ministry."

Curtis said he is distressed to learn that two mobile-home manufacturers halted production last week because of difficulties currently faced by mobile-home dealers in obtaining financing on mobile-home units for themselves and their customers.

Layoffs Laid to Rail west Closure

The Opposition says hundreds of workers face lay-offs because of a shortage of railway cars — a shortage largely attributable to the closure of the Railway plant in Squamish.

NDP leader Dave Barrett Wednesday asked the House to drop its normal business to allow for emergency debate on the problem.

Speaker Harvey Schroeder, however, ruled against the request for emergency debate.

Barrett says he warned the Socred government innumerable times closure of the plant would aggravate the chronic problem of rail car shortages, but it was closed last year anyway.

Now the Council of Forest Industries reports that between 2,500 to 3,000 carloads of lumber are stranded throughout the province because of a lumber car shortage.

Barrett quoted a newspaper story reporting B.C. Rail was able to meet only 85 per cent of its demands in a five-week period ending May 5, and was about 800 cars short.

Because of the continuing shortage Balco lumber is considering closing its Kamloops plant and laying off 885 workers.

Although the Squamish plant wasn't fully competitive, all research at the time indicated car shortages would continue to plague the West, Barrett said.

The type of car needed to move lumber — bulkhead flatcars — was built at Railwest for about $42,000, about 10 per cent higher than Eastern competitors, but well within range, he said.

The issue should be debated immediately to try to find a solution, Barrett said.

When our competitors were trying to come up with something like Blackstripe, we pioneered the 30 month warranty.

Now, when our competitors are still wondering how long their warranties should be, Toshiba introduces the 50 month warranty.

It includes all parts and labour. We come to your home. There's no extra charge for you to pay.

Service Slipping

The United Transportation Union has criticized CP Rail for allowing passenger service on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway to deteriorate.

The union issued a statement after a Nanaimo meeting Tuesday alleging that CP Rail has been allowing the deterioration since 1970 in order to justify its request to the Canadian transporation commission to abandon the service.

Farm Income Pact

The provincial government and the B.C. Federation of Agriculture have reached agreement over the province's new farm income assurance program, the two sides said Wednesday.

In announcing the agreement, federation president Pat Hibbert and Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said that all existing contracts will run to their expiry date without change and that coverage for eligible commodities not previously included in the program will begin immediately.

The programs will continue to utilize the insurance principle with all indemnities paid over the long term by premiums contributed equally by both the producer and the province, Hewitt said.

He stressed that consumer prices will not be adversely affected by the farm income assurance policies.

Hibbert said he is satisfied that the new plan recognizes the cost of production to B.C. farmers and noted that it came about as a result of six months of negotiations between the federation and the ministry.

Alaska-B.C. Rail Talks Slated

Premier Bill Bennett will meet Alaska Governor Jay Hammond next week to continue discussion of northern rail development.

Bennett said he and Hammond will be joined by technical experts and representatives from the Yukon, Alberta and the Canadian and U.S. federal governments during the meetings, to be held Monday and Tuesday in Anchorage.

FREE FERRY FOR PUPILS?

Socred MLA Elwood Veitch presented a private member's bill to the legislature Wednesday calling for free passage aboard the B.C. ferries for students, their teacher-chaperones and their vehicles when travelling to Victoria to visit the Parliament Buildings.

The Burnaby-Willingdon member's bill says the program would apply to students in both public and private schools.

How Your Garden Grows

Caring for indoor plants

House plants can add interest to any home. There are many types available, but all require the following:

1. Abundant indirect light. All plants depend on light for their metabolic processes, and will not survive long at low light intensity. The light source can be a window, incandescent bulbs or fluorescent tubes.
2. Sufficient water. Indoor plants should be watered thoroughly—but the soil or growing medium should be allowed to dry between waterings. Perfect drainage is required to prevent water retention and consequent rotting of plant roots.
3. Adequate plant food. A completely balanced plant food containing nitrogen, phosphorous and potash is recommended. Any of these products will do the job:

Green Valley Hi-Sol 20-20-20, which also contains minor plant food elements.

Green Valley Liquid Fish Fertilizer.

Green Valley Liquid Seaweed Fertilizer.

GREEN VALLEY 20-20-20 HI-SOL
GREEN VALLEY 10-5-5 FERTILIZER LIQUID SEAWEED

Each of these products should be mixed with water prior to application. Indoor plants should be fed every 2 to 3 weeks during spring and summer. Feeding should taper off to once a month during the fall, and stop altogether in December and January.

To avoid problems with soil insects and diseases, use a good sterilized potting soil such as Green Valley Potting Soil. Plants should be repotted at least once a year—otherwise, toxic materials build up which may adversely affect the plant.

GREEN VALLEY POTTING SOIL
GREEN VALLEY HYDROPONIC PLANT FOOD

Hydroponic Gardening

Hydroponics involves growing plants without soil, and is becoming recognized as a more efficient way to grow a wide range of flowers and vegetables.

In place of soil, an aggregate such as vermiculite, sand, pebbles or sawdust is used. This growing medium is kept moist—but not overly wet—at all times, and suitable plant nutrients are added at regular intervals.

Green Valley Hydroponic Plant Food is specially formulated for this type of gardening. Used as directed, this soluble plant food will help you create a highly fertile growing environment.

With hydroponics, you can grow beautiful flowers and nutritious vegetables under controlled conditions.

Reds Corner Cobalt

Moscow has purchased and, of equal importance, how this year's buying compares with last.

The Soviets have been building up their stocks of cobalt since late in 1976. At best, the dealers can only guess that the 1978 purchases were abnormal.

The dealers say the Soviets have been exceedingly canny buyers, placing orders of only 30-to-50 tons at a time. Deals in the free market cover perhaps 50 per cent of the world's output — about 25,000 tons — so orders of this size would be noticed but not disruptive.

Until the invasion, most dealers here attributed the free market rise of nearly 200 per cent to conventional economic forces — a month-long strike at the Belgian plant treating Zaire's concentrates and production problems in Zambia, the distant second producer.

Most of the metal is sold through the bulk market, directly from big producer to big customer. The price on that market has risen far less. On Monday, Zambia announced that it would raise its bulk price by about 30 per cent, to $8.50 a pound. Further increases are expected, but nothing like those on the free-wheeling free market.

Rough estimates of the Soviet purchases this year range from 500 to 2,000 tons. Assuming, they bought in near $8 a pound and picked up 2,000 tons, they have made a $35 million investment in a stockpile now worth $130 million and leading higher.

The Soviet Union, however, is far less interested in speculative paper profits than in an assured supply of a vital metal.

If Lubett's most pessimistic forecast is correct, the world will lose almost half a year's cobalt output. Other metals can be substituted in alloys for cobalt, but the changeover is expensive and time-consuming.

Gov't Delays Shares

The Crown corporation set up to handle government-owned industries may not issue shares until next spring.

Last August, when legislation was introduced to set up the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation, Premier Bill Bennett said the public would be able to start buying shares by early 1978.

But David Halliwell, president and chief executive officer of the corporation, said in an interview there are still a number of problems to be worked out.

Halliwell said the corporation will try and go with a share issue in the fall but is wary of going against the Canada Savings Bonds in October.

Word is out that this year's CSB issue will be one of the biggest ever, Halliwell said, and the first sales of shares of BCRIC would have to compete with the bonds.

The CSBs use the same distribution system of banks and trust companies as the BCRIC share issue.

December and January are bad months, so spring 1979 may be the date for the first shares getting on the market.

Carmela Costigan checks what she has to work with. It isn't much.

By the time Debra Morgan finished with Al, it was enough to curl his hair. He thought he was getting an oil change and lube job.

Seven minutes under the dome and our pal Al is done to a turn.

Holy Follicles, Al, Is That Really You?

It was time for a trip to the tonsorial parlor but this time reporter Al Forrest bypassed his regular barber in favor of the full-blown treatment. Here he lets his hair down and tells all about unisex.

"My God!" cried one woman.

Another tried to kiss me.

It was when I looked in the mirror, though, that I began to have doubts about my New Look. But by then it was too late to get my $55 back.

It was clear that, in some indefinable way, I would never be the same again.

The assignment was to find out what unisex is all about.

So I went down to Maison Georges at 9 a.m. Tuesday. And I stayed there until they called a halt at 11:20 a.m. It was obvious that was as gorgeous as I was going to get.

I learned that a beauty salon is not anything like a barber shop. For one thing a beauty salon smells better. For another, there is no time to read or to talk about last night's hockey game.

There are two women poised to do things to you and as soon as one is finished shampooing, the other is there with the hair blower. At one point both of them were putting curlers in my hair.

In charge of the production was Carmela Costigan.

"The ultimate in hair styling is the completely natural treatment," she explained. "After shampoo, the hair is styled with scissors and then dried from the warmth of the stylist's hands. I would run my fingers through your hair for two hours."

She studied my basic look, which I characterize as Kennedy natural.

"Somehow," she said, "I don't think you're ready for the ultimate."

Second choice was a permanent, using the new computer-perm machine, followed by teasing and blow-drying.

"Will I look gorgeous?"

"Of course."

"How much?"

"How much gorgeous?"

"How much money? The cost?"

"It's nothing. A trifle," she said. "Look upon it as an investment."

"That much?!!"

"It is quite in order to come in and ask for an estimate," she said. "People should shop around."

"Fine," I said. "How much for a lube job and an oil change?"

Translated it came to a range of $12 to $15 for a scissors cut or a total of $40 with cut and permanent, using the computer-perm machine. Manicure was an extra $5 and hair-tinting added $10.

"So it's only $55, you see?"

I nodded. "A mere trifle."

Carmela's assistant, Debra Morgan, began the process by giving me a shampoo. It reminded me of when I was five years old but in beauty salons they do things mother would never have done. For one thing, you get to lie back in a very comfortable chair while the stylist washes and takes great care to avoid soap getting into the eyes.

None of that "Where's the towel, dammit!" that you hear around the house.

Then being whisked to the chair where Carmela begins the scissors cut.

"Hair isn't cut any more," she says. "It is styled . . . created . . . layered. A barber will grab hair and cut it all the same length. A stylist cuts it to different lengths so it forms layers. It creates the illusion of more hair. It may even encourage the hair to grow."

She studied my follicles.

"Some of these dormant ones may begin growing again with regular massage," she said.

She then said a lot of things about PH factors and acid balances and the next thing I knew she and Debra were putting me in curlers.

They set up the computer-perm machine.

"We feed your information into the machine," she explained, "and your hair will set in the precise length of time."

"What information?"

"Various things. Hmmm. Resistance level. Hmmm. Yes. Type? Dull, definitely dull."

"Oh, it's not that . . ."

"Shhh. Dull, yes, and you have virgin hair."

"Is that good?"

"It means never-been-tinted. We'll fix that. It should be a bit lighter. It will have more shine."

Seven minutes later the computer buzzed and I was whisked away to the shampoo room.

"What's happening now?"

"You're being neutralized."

"Oh. Will it hurt?"

"Only if you fall off the chair. Relax."

Then back to the main room to be styled. It was nearing the moment of truth.

"Just got back from London, Rome and Zurich," Carmela was saying. "Men's hair is definitely getting shorter. It's still being styled but the shorter look is on the way."

"Then I was already in fashion?"

"Not that short. Women's hair is becoming shorter, too. Those with long hair are turning to permanents at the end of the hair. It's called the halo effect."

"I'd like that."

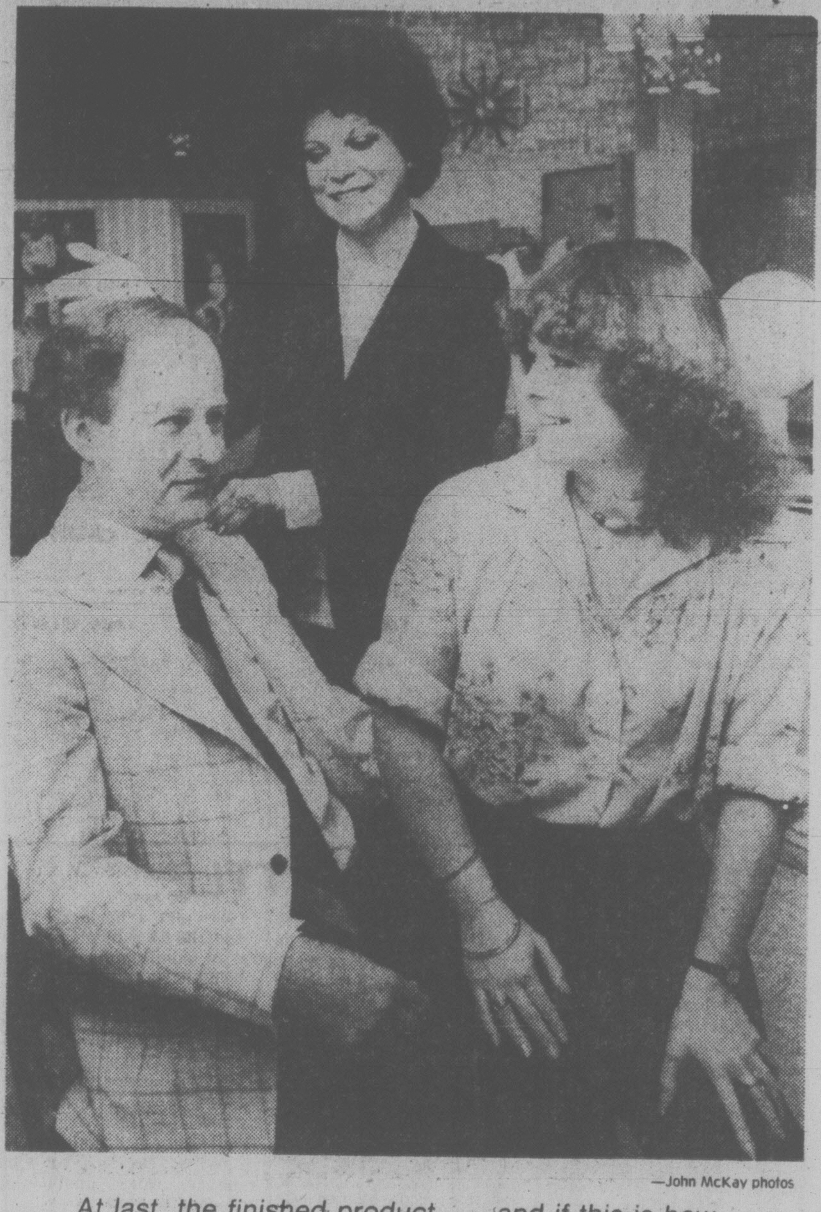
"Shhh. We're just about finished. There. What do you think?"

"Who is it?"

Well, it seemed just fine inside Maison Georges but when I got outside all sorts of things began happening. Women turned. Men chuckled. Dogs barked.

Back at the office there was no end of jokes. "Who's the new girl? Can I have a date?"

There were all sorts of other problems. Like how to avoid the wind and the rain. And how to go to bed without putting my new hairdo on the pillow. I figure movie stars must sleep standing up.



—John McKay photos

City Woman Held In Trident Protest

The others — Tricia Mary-Moon of Victoria, Wendy Mitchell of Merville, Ben Hines, of Courtenay and Ian Jamieson of Powell River — were released on personal recognizance to appear next Thursday. All face charges connected with a mass protest against the Trident submarine base on Puget Sound.

Spokesman Ken Rowell of Victoria, who attended the demonstrations, said he was impressed with the orderly success of the campaign involving members of Pacific Life Community, Greenpeace, Life Without Trident and other groups banded together as the May 22 Coalition. Local participants were from the Vancouver Island Affinity Group.

The arrests, intended to clog the court systems of Seattle and Tacoma, were made without violence, although one member was "roughed up" by a U.S. marshal, Rowell said.

Those to appear next week will attempt to join 266 persons who will apply for a mass trial on charges resulting from the demonstrations.

CHASE ENDS IN ARREST

A 30-year-old Cobble Hill man will appear in court June 14 charged with impaired and dangerous driving following a motorcyle chase in Colwood late Wednesday.

The chase began when Colwood RCMP spotted the man, whose name has not been released, driving his motorcycle on Highway 1A without lights around 11:30 p.m. and tried to pull him over.

The chase covered four miles, mostly through residential districts, before police forced the motorcycle off the road at Brock and the Trans Canada Highway.

Camosun Contract Awarded

A contract to manage the $6 million Camosun College expansion project was awarded Wednesday to a Vancouver firm, Concordia Management.

Concordia's bid of $270,000 for the management project was selected by the college council from 18 estimates that started at $235,000 and went as high as $700,000. Farmer Construction was the only Victoria company to bid.

The bids varied widely because some of the firms have no experience in management work, councillor Pete Dorazio explained today.

He said the work, which will take place at the college's Lansdowne campus, should start at the end of the year, pending education ministry approval of the necessary funds.

The first phase of the project is a new multi-purpose bilding that will house administrative offices, classrooms, science laboratories, lounge and study areas.

Other work will include extensive renovations to existing buildings.

The entire project will take more than a year to complete, Dorazio said.

62 Laid Off at McDonald's But Only 10 Leaving City

Only 10 of 62 employees being laid off by McDonald's Bakery Friday will be leaving Victoria, Sidney Ald. Jim Lang said today.

Lang, chairman of a committee to arrange employment for the 62, said 30 either took early retirement or found jobs on their own while the remaining 32 have applied to his committee for assistance in finding work.

"Of this number only 10 have indicated they will leave Victoria. The other 22 are looking for work here and, of course, the ones taking early retirement are also staying."

The employees are being laid off because of a decision by McGavin Toastmaster, which bought the company five years ago, to close the baking division.

The plant at 524 Culduthel will continue to be used as a warehousing and distribution centre for McGavin.

There were 82 employees in all and the remaining 20 will have permanent work in warehousing activities there.

Lang said the employees being laid off will receive large cheques Friday and this will help to cushion the blow.

"They have been with the company a long time and the separation cheques are very good. None of them will be destitute. Some of them in their late 50s and early 60s are talking about taking early retirement and, maybe, getting part-time work later."

Lang's committee held meetings Tuesday night and Wednesday night and is canvassing employers today and Friday.

"There are a large number of marketable skills involved," Lang said.

There is general office staff, including accountants and receptionists, as well as mechanical maintenance employees and truck drivers.

The committee consists of representatives of management, union and Canada Manpower, with Lang as a neutral chairman.

Lang has worked in federal government job-creation programs.

The numbers released by Lang were confirmed by M.C. Currie, general manager of McDonald's. Currie said about half the employees being laid off have new jobs or are taking early retirement. A search is under way to find employment for the remainder.

Canada Manpower information officer Dan Bowes said the federal agency is conducting an extensive search across the city in hopes of finding jobs quickly.

Pay Hike Limit Set

Anti-inflation administrator William Oliver announced today in Ottawa that pay raises to six senior officers of the Victoria police force should be held to a maximum of $2,400 a year for three years plus six per cent to cover an additional nine months.

The pay settlement for the inspectors, represented by the Victoria Police Senior Officers Association, covers the period from April 1, 1975, to Dec. 31, 1978.

CALKINS NEW GVTA HEAD

Sid Langhelt was defeated Wednesday night in his bid for a second term as president of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association (GVTA).

Langhelt leaves the full-time post July 1 and returns to a teaching job in the district.

Also elected to the executive were Margaret MacKenzie for a second term as first vice-president and Monty Bryant, second vice-president.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in active mid-afternoon trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.5 million shares compared with 2.82 million at the same time Wednesday.

Great-West Life Assurance Co. rose ½ to a new high of $98 a share on the sale of 2,281 shares following its opening resumption. Investors Group has announced it will proceed with an offer for all remaining shares at $100 a share. It holds a 50.1 per cent interest.

Block Bros. Industries Ltd. climbed 1½ to $8½ a share on 4,600 shares after resuming at the opening following news that Olympia and York Developments Ltd. will offer $9 a share for all outstanding shares.

Among other industrials, Combined Insurance Co. of America shot up 2½ to $20¼ on the sale of 550 shares, General Motors 1⅛ to $67⅝, Great Lakes Paper 1 to $30½, Power Corp. A ¼ to $16½ and Canadian Pacific Ltd. ⅛ to $19¼.

Dome Petroleum dropped ¾ to $59⅞, Consolidated-Bathurst A ¾ to $27¼, Falconbridge Nickel A ⅝ to $24, Extendicare ½ to $11¼ and Texaco Canada ½ to $38.

Campbell Chibougamau Mines A rose ½ to $6¾, Lacana Mining ⅜ to $7⅜ and Rio Algom ⅜ to $31¾. Gibraltar Mines fell ¼ to $5⅜ and Hudson Bay Mining A ¼ to $17¾.

Sceptre Resources advanced ¾ to $9, Siebens Oil and Gas ⅜ to $27⅞ and Asamera Oil ⅜ to $14⅝. Numac Oil and Gas slipped ⅞ to $34⅞ and Czar Resources ½ to $21.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices stabilized today, ending two days of selling that deflated the Dow Jones average 17.50 points.

Experts said the sharp drop in prices Tuesday and Wednesday was normal as investors cashed in recent gains. But analysts added that while the market stopped falling, it still is edgy about inflation and higher interest rates. Investors were worried about the weekly money supply figure that the Federal Reserve Board planned to release today after the close of the market, brokers said. That could provide a clue about future levels of inflation and steps the central bank may take to curb rising prices by tightening credit.

Topping the New York exchange's most-active list was Reliance Group, which was ahead ⅜ to $32¾. American Motors was the next most heavily traded issue, rising ¼ to $6.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were slightly higher in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 261,600 shares, compared with 454,000 shares traded up to the same time Wednesday. Walker A climbed ¼ to $33¼, Noranda A ⅛ to $28, Provincial Bank of Canada ⅛ to $15 and Brascan A ⅛ to $16⅜. Kaiser Resources fell ⅛ to $14½ and Inco A ¼ to $20¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Rising industrial issues sent the London stock market moderately higher Today near the close of light trading. The Financial Times index was up 4.8 to 478.8 an hour before the close. Higher-than-expected first quarter results sent many industrials into an advance, while gold shares declined. Canadian issues eased.

We Are Looking For Dealers

Discriminating dealers. Who recognize the potential of the hot tub market. Dealers who have an eye for tomorrow: who insist that their business be profitable.

The California Cooperage dealer program is more than just a promise. We offer today's finest hot tub, coupled with the industry's best sales literature, dealer aid such as promo kits, even radio commercials.

All this is backed by a truly massive national advertising campaign which includes full-page ads in Playboy, Penthouse, Rolling Stone and a dozen other magazines.

Our dealers can select complete systems accessories and even solar heaters.

Hudson's Bay

Hudson's Bay Company announced net earnings before extraordinary items for the three months ended April 30 were $907,000 or six cents a share, down from $1.456 million recorded in a comparable period last year.

During the period, the company said in a news release, a British subsidiary disposed of its investment in the Glenlivet Distillers Ltd., producing an extraordinary gain of about $3.6 million. That brought the total earnings for the quarter to about $4.5 million.

Sales and revenue for the three months increased eight per cent to $334.1 million from $308.8 million.

Montreal Bank

The Bank of Montreal reported balance of revenue after tax for the second quarter ended April 30, 1978 was $42.7 million, or $1.01 a share, compared with $27.2 million, or 72 cents a share, for the corresponding period in 1977.

Total revenue for the second quarter increased to $595.8 million in 1978 from $478.9 million in 1977.

After tax balance of revenue for the first six months of 1978 were $82,861,000, or $1.95 a share, compared with $55,297,000, or $1.46, for the same period in the previous year.

Carling-O'Keefe

Carling O'Keefe announced its earnings for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1978, were $11.8 million, compared with $4.8 million for the year ended March 31, 1977. Its major loss was $10 million from the sale of its U.S. brewing subsidiary in December, 1977. Consolidated sales revenue was $381 million for the year ended March 31, 1978, an increase of 6.1 per cent from last year's total of $359 million, mainly as a result of price increases in its operating companies.

Liquid Protein Dieter Spurned Doctors

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A 25-year-old Burlington mother who died while on a controversial liquid-protein diet ignored warnings to see a doctor, her mother testified at an inquest Wednesday.

Janine MacDonald died in hospital in October, two days after she collapsed at her home here.

May Bertrand said her daughter lost 139 pounds during a five-month period in which she lived on a liquid-protein product supplemented with tea, coffee, and sugar-free soft drinks. Mrs. MacDonald weighed 278 pounds when she started dieting in May, 1977.

Mrs. MacDonald passed out at her home on Oct. 22 and was treated and discharged from Joseph Brant Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Edward Kwong, emergency duty physician at the hospital, testified that the woman indicated she was desperate to lose weight.

"She spent most of the time on borderline starvation," he said.

Tests showed that Mrs. MacDonald had a low potassium level, which is related to muscle movement, including the heart, and an abnormal urine test.

The following day, Mrs. MacDonald again passed out at home. She was taken back to hospital, where she died Oct. 24.

Dr. Alan Hebb, who treated Mrs. MacDonald, said cause of death remains uncertain, but the woman had an inflammation of the heart muscle.

Amelio Fantin, a chemist with C. E. Jamieson and Co. Ltd., manufacturer of Pro Win, the liquid-protein diet supplement used by Mrs. MacDonald, said the substance is made from pigskin and flavored with cherry or orange. It has been on the market since early 1977.

"We all feel it's a valuable tool for the treatment of obesity if properly taken with a doctor's supervision," he testified.

Fantin said the company was acutely aware of adverse publicity as a result of deaths of persons on liquid-protein diets.

CANADA OPENS REFUGEE DOOR

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuter) — Canada has decided to accept 35 Vietnamese refugee families every month for an indefinite period from temporary camps in Southeast Asia, a Canadian high commission spokesman said today.

The program will continue "as long as there is need to do so," the spokesman said.

Two Canadian immigration officers have been making regular trips to refugee camps in Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand and Singapore to select suitable persons for resettlement in Canada, he said. He said a large number of those chosen are qualified in one way or another, particularly in technical skills.

He described the decision to accept a regular flow of Vietnamese refugees as one of the major resettlement programs ever undertaken by the Canadian government.

WILD OATS SOWN

SASKATOON (CP) — Farmers in some areas of Saskatchewan have been forced to tear up seeded fields and start again after heavy growths of wild oats germinated with the grain, Dan Hiller, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool research analyst, said Wednesday.

Usually the weed comes up ahead of the grain and is killed, but this time it lagged, making first runs at weed prevention ineffective, he said.

Risk Capital Proposals Gathering Momentum

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Wednesday published a discussion paper proposing to set up federally-incorporated investment companies to create pools of risk capital for small-and medium-sized business.

The proposed, latest in a series of releases initiated this week by Tony Abbott, small business minister, is only to encourage discussion.

It gives no idea when the government may act to deal with the problem of making more venture capital, or risk capital as it is also called, available for smaller businesses.

The proposed federal plan to set up small business investment companies would consist of a number of privately owned and operated companies. They would be licensed by the government to provide equity financing to small businesses, and supported by the government.

The discussion paper basically asks three questions, and solicits comment from the financial community, other governments and from entrepreneurs and small business people.

—Should the equity investment activities of the Federal Business Development Bank, which makes loans and gives some equity financing, be substantially increased?

—Is there a need for further tax measures to make it more attractive to lend risk capital to small business?

—Should the government set up a new plan of business investment companies, called a Venture Enterprise Investment Company (VEIC) program?

The discussion paper outlines the proposal for setting up VEICs, again emphasizing that it is not final about them.

Among the highlights of the program, the government says the investment companies would be privately owned and operated and seek to make a profit. The federal government would guarantee any debt securities they issued up to 90 per cent of their value.

Imperial 'Giveaway' Blasted by Notley

MEDICINE HAT (CP) — Grant Notley, Alberta NDP leader, said Wednesday the Alberta government has given up nearly $70 million in federal tax relief for Albertans in return for tax concessions to Imperial Oil Ltd. worth hundreds of millions of dollars.

Notley said the April 10 federal budget provides tax reductions of about $100 per taxpayer in every province except Alberta, where tax concessions were made to the oil industry instead.

"It is reasonably clear that the government of Alberta gave up tax savings for the people of Alberta in return for tax savings for Imperial Oil," he said in a news release.

Sexist Doctors Blamed for VD

HALIFAX (CP) — Sexist attitudes of North American doctors have led to an epidemic rise in the incidence of venereal disease, a California sociologist said Wednesday.

"Poor levels of communication between physicians, who are usually male, and women often lead to gonorrhoea not being diagnosed," Hal Jamison said in an address to an international health conference.

Jamison said physicians are too often guilty of bad diagnosis when female patients come to them with complaints.

"Too often the doctor concludes that a woman who experiences urethral burning has a urinary infection," he said. "The woman is then sent to the drugstore with a prescription for some antibiotic, and the doctor doesn't even entertain the notion she may have contacted VD."

Even contemporary medical research literature indicates sexist attitudes in a field which continues to be dominated by men, Jamison said.

Grocer Sam Dies at 75

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Steinberg, who turned a small grocery store into one of Canada's most successful supermarket chains, died Wednesday at the Jewish General Hospital here. He was 72.

Steinberg was the founder and chairman of Steinberg Inc. food stores.

Steinberg Inc. grossed more than $1 billion in 1977 through its more than 200 outlets in Quebec and Ontario, which include 45 Miracle Mart stores and 25 Cardinal Cadillac outlets.

He started the business empire by expanding the store his mother had opened on the bustling ethnic marketplace along downtown St. Lawrence Boulevard in 1917.

Steinberg was a past president of the Jewish General Hospital, a director of the Maimonides Hospital and Home for the Aged, a director of the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society and a director of the Federation of Jewish Community Services.

He was also a member of the Canada Council and a director of the Montreal Trust Company and the Montreal Life Insurance Company.

Five Provinces Back Wide Keable Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — Lawyers for five provinces told the Supreme Court of Canada Wednesday it should allow the Keable commission to run a wide-ranging inquiry into RCMP wrongdoing in Quebec.

They said the provinces' constitutional jurisdiction over the administration of justice, guaranteed by Section 92(14) of the British North America Act, allowed provincial inquiries to delve into internal workings of the RCMP security service — provided the aim was to uncover illegal activity.

This argument was presented, with only minor variations, by Ontario, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The brief from Alberta had yet to be presented.

Lawyer Louis Lindholm of, Victoria, speaking for B.C., said provincial attorneys-general have "the general duty to prosecute Criminal Code offences."

To fulfill this duty, they had the right to set up inquiries "to obtain the information with which to determine how to proceed in given cases."

The provinces did, however, endorse Ontario's position that the inquiry must relate to the "administration of justice in the province," as specified in the BNA Act. It could not be pressed further to become a general investigation of the Mounties' security service.

Lawyer H. Hazen Strange of New Brunswick noted, however, that a provincial inquiry had the right to trace the lines of responsibility for illegal RCMP activity all the way to Ottawa.

This could become necessary in cases where Mounties said they were acting on orders from their superiors, he added.

The provinces' argument met with a cool response from Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, who told the lawyers repeatedly that officers in Ottawa who gave orders leading to criminal acts were acting in an internal federal matter.

"I can't see how that relates to the administration of justice in the province," he said, adding that the Mounties in question could be prosecuted without inquiring into the RCMP itself.

Commissioner Jean Keable, backed by the Quebec justice department, is fighting a Feb. 21 ruling by the Quebec Court of Appeal which has blocked the inquiry for the last three months.

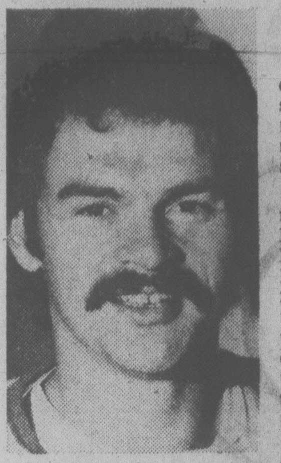
Ron Is Purest Shooter of Them All



RON MacNEIL
. . . enjoys 13-point night

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

Many of the pure shooters of the Western Lacrosse Association got together at Memorial Arena Wednesday night and put on an old-fashioned shootout.

The top five in the points race (before the game) — Kevin Alexander 34, Brian Evans 33, Ron MacNeil 31, Bob Cool 30 and Norm Baker 27 — were there; and when the firing had ended they were still there, although in different order, and Victoria's Ron MacNeil had proved to be the purest of them all.

MacNeil scored seven goals, should have had at least a couple more, tossed in six assists, and led the Rocks to a 22-15 victory over Nanaimo Timbermen before 1,723 fans.

Victory partially atoned for a 10-8 Nanaimo victory at Nanaimo on Saturday and kept the Shamrocks in a first-place tie with Vancouver Burrards, who defeated Coquitlam Adanacs 11-6 at Vancouver.

Defeat left the Timbermen two points out of first and tied with New Westminster Salmonbellies, who meet the Irish in a Saturday night game here. Nanaimo hosts Coquitlam.

As impressive as MacNeil's performance was, it wasn't his best-ever. Twice in his past he scored 13 goals in a game, once as a junior and once as a senior and both times in the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

His outburst, tops of the year, vaulted him into first place in the points race with 44, three more than Alexander, who now has 41.

Alexander was no slouch either. He scored four goals and had three assists while Nanaimo's Evans, the defending league scoring champion, had three goals and three assists and he's now No. 3 in the point battle with 39.

The other big gunners were Charn Dhillon of the Shamrocks with four goals and one assist and Rick Baker, a former Timberman, with three goals. Bob Cool had two goals and two assists for Nanaimo and he's fourth in points with 34, just two ahead of Victoria's Norm Baker who had a goal and four assists as did Shamrocks' Dan Green.

Rick Sage, Tej Labh, Ian Kennedy and Ken King got the other Nanaimo goals.

Many players were showing black-and-blue badges of courage following the vengeful outing with Nanaimo drawing 38 penalty minutes and the Shamrocks 32. But there were no serious injuries.

The Shamrocks got away quickly in the first period to break into a 5-1 lead after only eight minutes. The Timbermen came right back and were all even at 7-7 early in the second. Then came what might be regarded as the turning point as a pair of penalties to Nanaimo's Jack Kastelein, a former Shamrock, and Labh, a former McDonalds' junior, did them in.

Dhillon scored a power-play goal and MacNeil followed with another . Then, when Labh drew a second penalty, MacNeil scored again and the Rocks were out of trouble and ahead 10-7.

Although the Timbermen managed to stay close until late in the period, the Rocks had assumed control and took a 16-12 lead into the loosely-played final period.

One of the key times in the game for the Rocks came in the second when they took five successive penalties in 5½ minutes. Nanaimo could only pick up two goals in that time while MacNeil managed a short-handed goal for the Irish.

Mac Maude and Earl Nicholson divided goalkeeping duties for the Timbermen and had 34 stops, two more than Larry Smeltzer of the Shamrocks who hadn't had that many goals put by him for a long time. He couldn't remember when.

In defeat the Timbermen showed a vastly improved club from last season.

Coach Ken Alexander of the Timbermen was the first to agree.

"I think we'll be there," he said. "I'll be happy if we can split with the all the clubs this year. And, except for Burrards, whom we've only played once, we've already done that.

"What people forget," he added, "is that last year we were 0-11, so this has to be a better team and it is. What we are aiming at is a playoff spot and I wouldn't be surprised to find that there will be no more than 12 points separating all five teams at the end of the season.

Claremont Gets A Slender Lead

Claremont and Mt. Douglas — not unexpectedly — are running a close one-two in the Vancouver Island high school track and field meet after opening events Wednesday at Centennial Stadium.

Claremont leads with 50 points while Mt. Doug has 42 and each school has qualified four athletes for the British Columbia championships in Burnaby, June 2-3.

Dunsmuir is running third in standings with 20 points.

The only other school to place more than one qualifier in the provincial meet was St. Michael's University School with two. The top two finishers in each final receive a trip to Burnaby.

Claremont had a one-two finish in the girls' javelin toss by Tracy Wilkinson and Yolanda Willers. Wilkinson hurled the javelin 38.56 metres and Willers was only .02 of a metre short.

Maeve Lydon nailed down Claremont's third spot in the provincials by running second to Peggy Nelson of Dunsmuir in the 3,000 metres and Tince Harrison became the other Claremont qualifier after outclassing the field in the 5,000 metres.

Dan Reimer and Brian Alexander gained berths at Burnaby for Mt. Douglas with a one-two finish in the shot put. Reimer lofted the shot out to 10:33.2 metres.

The other two Mt. Doug berths were collected by Judy Tobacco, who set a new meet high jump record of 1.65 metres, and runner-up Joy Cleland.

Henry Song captured one berth for St. Michael's by winning the hammer throw with a toss of 36.26 metres and clubmate Ted Watson placed second.

The rest of the finals were scheduled to wrap up this afternoon.

PATRICK'S WIDOW DIES IN RIVERSIDE

NEW YORK (AP) — Grace Patrick, widow of former New York Ranger coach and general manager Lester Patrick, died Wednesday in Riverside, Conn., a spokesman for the National Hockey League club said. Mrs. Patrick would have been 91 on June 7.

She had lived in Riverside since leaving Victoria in 1967 and is survived by sons Murray, of Riverside, and Lynn, of St. Louis; nine grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Patrick, a Hockey Hall of Famer, died in 1960.

Born in Nanaimo, Mrs. Patrick will be buried in in the family plot at the Royal Oak Burial Park in Victoria. A private service will be held next week.

Ladies Welcome In Hockey Ranks

REGINA (CP) — A plan to welcome female hockey players into the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA) was approved Thursday.

The closing plenary session of the CAHA's annual meeting approved a resolution calling for separate—but equal—status for female players and teams.

Vice-president Frank McKinnon of Winnipeg submitted a proposal for establishment of a female hockey council soon after a resolution calling for an amendment to an existing regulation that only males be included in the CAHA was defeated.

The resolution specified that females would not be encouraged or allowed to play in direct competition with males.

Disputes arising from the 1978 Centennial Cup playoff were handled at the session with little public discussion. Junior Vice-President Roland Mercier won passage of a resolution saying players, officials and leagues who do not abide by CAHA rules will be barred from Centennial Cup playoffs.

Calgary Canucks of the Alberta Junior Hockey League, Prince Albert Raiders of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League and Merritt Centennials of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League were involved in a western dispute while Guelph Platers and Charlottetwon Eagles were involved in a separate dispute in the east.

Leos Add Trio

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have signed import running back Rod Connors from the University of Southern California to a 1978 Canadian Football League contract.

Connors, who has another year of college eligiblity remaining, is a highly-rated prospect because of his size and speed. Connors, 22, is six-foot-three and 210 pounds. He was not a starter last season and played behind Charles White, an All-American candidate at USC.

The Lions, who open training camp this weekend in Courtenay, also said two Canadian draft choices—wide receiver John Titzen and defensive back Don Guy-have signed contracts. Both are from the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

Big Games Team

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand has chosen its largest-ever sports team to compete abroad for the Commonwealth Games at Edmonton in August. The team totals 103 athletes.

HIBS TO TACKLE VISTAS TONIGHT

Fourth-place finisher in league play this year, Hibs will meet the Vancouver Island Vistas in an exhibition game at Royal Athletic Park at 8:30 p.m.

Hibs have won one game and tied two, the latest a 2-2 draw with Vancouver Whitecaps, on their seven-game North American tour to date.

Two veterans with the club who will bear watching are fullback John Brownlie and midfielder Arthur Duncan. Both have had international experience.

Brownlie, regarded as one of the top attacking backs in Scotland, is again at top form after missing almost a year of play because of a broken leg. He has been a Hib since 1969.

Duncan, an eight-year veteran with the team, has been moved to midfield from left wing this season.

It's Play and Win For The Bruins

BOSTON (CP) — As Boston and Montreal Canadiens prepared for what may be the decisive game of the Stanley Cup final series, Bruin captain Wayne Cashman sees the sixth game tonight with a clear eye for the facts.

"There'll be no pep talks," the rugged left winger said "It's either go out and play and win or get out the golf clubs.

"If we win that game it all comes down to a one-game series for the Stanley Cup."

The Canadiens took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League championship with a 4-1 win in a penalty-filled marathon Tuesday night at Montreal, leaving the Bruins in a must-win situation.

If Boston tops Montreal at the Garden, the final game of the series will be played Saturday night at the Forum in Montreal.

Montreal coach Scotty Bowman ran an optional workout Wednesday, and his biggest headache appears to be the decision of who to dress for the game tonight.

Bowman said he was confident that the sixth game wouldn't be as violent as the one Tuesday, which saw 106 minutes in penalties called by referee Dave Newell.

"...During the season we lost 17 games and the three guys who are working this series—(Bob) Myers, (Andy) van Hellemond and Newell— were in nine of them. Myers had four losses, van Hellemond had three and Newell two.

"Of all the officials, we get the three that were one, two and three in our losses."

Track Purchase

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — A local contractor, Edward H. Ellis, 62, has signed a $16.7 million agreement to purchase the burned-out Garden State Racetrack built by his father 36 years ago.

A's Make News Again

By The Associated Press

Another funny thing happened to Oakland A's Wednesday night—they fell out of first place in the American League West Division.

Maybe Bobby Winkles knew something when he quit as manager of the A's Tuesday, because they continued a slide that has seen them lose 12 of 17 games, the latest a 7-1 decision to Milwaukee Brewers.

Coupled with California's 4-1 win over Chicago White Sox, it pushed the Angels into first place, five percentage points ahead of the A's, who had been on top since April 25.

In other American League action, Kansas City Royals beat Seattle Mariners 6-5, Texas Rangers beat Minnesota Twins 3-2 in 11 innings, Boston Red Sox defeated Toronto Blue Jays 8-2 and Detroit Tigers downed Baltimore 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader before the Orioles came back to take the nightcap 1-0. The Cleveland-New York game was rained out.

In the National League, John Denny pitched a two-hitter and St. Louis Cardinals ended their 11-game losing streak with a 2-0 win over Montreal Expos.

Chicago Cubs moved past Philadelphia and into first place in the East with a 10-inning, 6-4 victory over the Phillies, San Francisco Giants held its one-game lead in the West with a 2-0 win over Houston Astros, Cincinnati Reds beat Atlanta Braves 5-4, San Diego Padres defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 9-3 and Pittsburgh Pirates beat New York Mets 6-5 in 10 innings.

Chris Knapp pitched a four-hitter and Don Baylor and Bobby Grich homered to lead the Angels over the White Sox on the field and over the A's in the standings.

"We struggled to get here," said Baylor. "We lost seven of 11 on the road. The thing we have to do is turn that around and start winning two out of three. We have to take advantage of things. Kansas City is not playing well and Texas is playing .500 ball. We know Kansas City will start playing well sooner or later."

"This is a pretty good bunch of boys," said manager Dave Garcia, whose job was reported in jeopardy earlier this month. "I read about what has happened to the Yankees and the A's a few years ago and wonder how good they could have been if they didn't have problems."

Meanwhile, the A's lost when Milwaukee's Mike Caldwell pitched a six-hitter and Robin Yount drove in three runs for the Brewers.

"We have to juggle and hope we're lucky," said Jack McKeon, who took over when Winkles quit. "We've seen two pretty good pitchers the last two nights (Caldwell and Jerry Augustine). Left-handers are going to give us trouble."

Farmers Win

Farmer Construction had to play an extra inning Wednesday at Lambrick Park before extending an unbeaten streak to six games in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Ian Hood smacked a two-run double in the eighth inning to give Farmers a 4-2 victory over Dairy Queen and Terry Painter contributed a four-hit pitching performance to the decision.

The winning rally was started on successive singles by Ron Holmes and Al Moir, who moved up on a passed ball and ran home when Hood followed with the two-bagger.

Mark Wallace also had two hits for Farmers.

Haslam Trying New Car

Auto racing fans will have a chance to see Roy Haslam's debut in a brand-new vehicle Saturday during a special open super-stock event at Western Speedway.

Haslam, who campaigned in a 1965 Chevelle last season, has stepped up to a 1978 Camaro built by Darnelll Timan, Ltd., in Lake Bluff, Ill.

Haslam says he will compete in the International Drivers Chellenge series with the vehicle but hasn't decided which other events he will enter.

The car has been built to standard open super-stock specifications but Haslem says he and his crew are trying a few different things out. He won't disclose just what they are until they've proven out.

But Haslam can expect quite a bit of competition in the first open super-stock race of the season.

Both 1977 open champion George Stuart and former champion Rick O'Dell have new cars ready for action and veteran driver Roy Smith has reportedly improved the performance of his 1974 Nova. Joe Musfelt is also expected to have a new car ready for the event.

China Scores Upset Victory

PEKING (Reuter) — China beat Olympic champions Japan 3-0 to clinch the women's title at an international volleyball tournament Wednesday night.

The Chinese national team scored a 19-17, 15-13, 15-9 win over the Japanese in a gruelling two-hour dual.

The Chinese Szechwan provincial team took the third place when they beat Canada 15-6, 15-7, 15-13 in another match.

Canucks Sign Gary Bromley

VANCOUVER (CP) — Goalkeeper Gary Bromley has signed a two-year National Hockey League contract with Vancouver Canucks.

Bromley, 28, played this last season with Winnipeg Jets, champions of the World Hockey Association.

Record Entry Marks Times Tennis Meet

By MAX LOW
Times Staff

NEW PRESIDENT of the Vancouver Island Tennis Association, Ted Smythe looks over massive men's singles draw of annual Times Public Parks tennis tournament. (Times photo by Irving Strickland).

Though we struggled for entries for a while, once again we did it: we set an overall record with an incredible 255 players involved in this summer's Victoria Times Public Parks tennis tournament.

That's six more than last year's record of 249, even though this time entries were down in the mixed doubles with 36 couples playing compared with 45 pairs last year and in the junior boys (aged 14 to 18) singles with 37 entered compared with 46 last summer, and even though we had to cancel one event.

What made the big difference, however, was the massive entry of 128 players — 20 more than last year's record of 108 — in the men's singles and a larger field in the women's singles. But thereby hangs a tale.

You see, we'd been running the entry form in the Times for a couple of weeks but, three days before entries closed there were around 75 names in for the men's singles, seven for the girls' and a mere five for the women's.

We realized this was nowhere near enough for a tourney that runs all summer and threatened to cancel any event that didn't have at least 16 names.

Well, that started a flood and by the time entries closed we had 43 in the women's singles (well up on last summer's record entry of 32). But there were still only 11 names for the girls' event.

And so, in order to give the girls a game, we put their names in with the women, making a very respectable entry of 54 players.

It's unfortunate that we had to lose an event but since we began five years ago the girls' singles has always been the least popular of the five. There's good experience waiting for you in the women's event anyway girls!

Our plea for women to get over their shyness and enter brought forth a few who obviously have doubts about their prowess with a racquet. One envelope we opened had entry forms from two friends. Along the top of one, written in red pencil, were the words 'I'm not very good.' And then we unfolded the second entry form and along the top, also in red pencil, were the words 'I'm not very good either!'

Still in a public parks tourney like this, that's the name of the game. Getting involved, meeting people and having fun are the main things.

With our new rule that former winners cannot enter the same event again, naturally we have no defending champions this time. There are a couple of former runners-up though — Chris Forster, who lost to Greg Booth in last year's final, and Tom Dumancic, runner-up to Gordon Liebscher in our inaugural tourney in 1974 — who could be tough contenders in the men's singles.

Postcards with opponents' phone numbers and deadlines for first-round matches to be played by have been sent out and we must stick to these deadlines firmly if we are going to get through all the games in time for our windup at Henderson Park on Aug. 19 and 20.

So get cracking and get those first-round matches played and don't forget our first pre-tourney social evening at the Racquet Club of Victoria's badminton hall next Monday from 7:30 p.m. when there will be displays of tennis gear and equipment and three complete showings of a 55-minute film, supplied by Molsons Brewery, on last year's Wimbledon championships.

Mussels Add Two

An infielder and an outfielder are the latest additions as player contracts continue to flow in daily to the Victoria Mussels.

Al Albaugh, an Ohio native who was one of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's top hitters this year, and Paul Sullivan, a six-foot-three outfielder from California, are the fifth and sixth players signed by Victoria's entry in the Northwest Baseball League.

Albaugh, who ranked 14th in the NCAA in hitting with a .434 average during the recently-concluded season, can play either shortstop, second or third base. Recommended by a former teammate of Mussels' coach Don Rogelstad, Albaugh, 21, agreed to come to Victoria because of a promise that he would get plenty of playing time in the season that starts June 20.

Players previously announced as signed by Mussels are infielders Doug Morganti and Mark Hildebrand and pitchers Jeff McKay and Frank Lucarrelli.

Rono Extends Victory Streak

LONDON (Reuter) — Henry Rono, Kenya's new track superstar, devastated the world-class 3,000-metres field at an international meet Wednesday night, despite getting only an hour's sleep the previous night.

The Nandi tribesman, who has broken the world record marks for 5,000-metres and the 3,000-metres steeplechase in the last five weeks, kept his 1978 unbeaten record intact by winning in seven minutes 43.8 seconds.

Combos, Vicettes Connect

Yeta Dillala smacked a last-inning triple and then came home on a sacrifice by Marilyn Moen to give CJVI Vicettes a 4-3 decision over Hygrade Radio in Victoria Senior Women's Softball League play Wednesday at Hyacinth Park.

In the other game, Combos tripped Ingraham Hotel, 9-0.

The win moved Vicettes, now 8-1, four points ahead of runner-up Skylarks, who have played two less games.

Pam Jones threw a three-hitter to lead the Combos to victory and into third place, five points behind Vicettes but with a game in hand.

In Stuffy McGinnis Men's League play, Paul Morrison and Tom Robertson came up with the best of some heavy hitting to give Seaboard Construction a 14-4 romp over Batesons.

Seaboard scored six runs in the second inning when Morrison hit a grand-slam homer and Robertson cracked a two-run single. Robertson also had a three-run homer in the five-run sixth inning.

Title Fights To Precede Ali-Spinks

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — At least two and perhaps three boxing title fights, including a possible defence by lightheavyweight champion Victor Galindez, will precede the Muhammad Ali-Leon Spinks heavyweight battle Sept. 15, promoter Bob Arum has announced. If the four title matches come off, Arum said it will be the first time since 1937 that four world championships will be contested on the same night in the same city.

Facemasks Mandatory

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has passed a resolution making it mandatory that minor hockey players use facemasks.

Following a report by referee-in-chief Bob Nadin of Toronto, delegates at the annual meeting agreed facial shields must attach to the helmet at the forehead and cover the entire face to the point of the jaw.

The CAHA will not insist that masks worn next season be approved by the Canadian Standards Association but it is likely CSA approval will be required the following year.

Mariners Up For Sale

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Mariners of the year-old Pacific Hockey League are up for sale after losing about $100,000.

The Mariners drew an average of 2,997 fans, compared to what Canadian owner Peter Graham described as a 4,200 average needed to break even financially. Graham, of Vancouver, also is proprietor of the San Diego Sports Arena.

Graham said he would try to sell his team for $50,000 to interests in San Diego or Canada.

Dolphins Ready to Roll Again

Victoria Dolphins begin preparations for another season in the B.C. Big Four Junior Football League on Sunday in Copley Park, located on the corner of Vanalman and Parkridge in Saanich.

A total of 54 players turned out to pre-season meetings — 17 in Duncan and 37 in Victoria.

Dolphin coach Brian Gingell will be assisted this season by offensive co-ordinator Paul Shortt and defensive co-ordinator Loni Mitchell, who are both returning from last season.

Assisting them will be Joe Kurylo, defensive line coach, and Rick Haskell, who played with Dolphins and has some coaching experience in minor football.

Jim Mayo, who played four years for the University of Idaho and served one season as assitant coach of the same squad, is a newcomer to the Dolphin staff.

Other returning officials are general manager Fred Werhun, equipment manager Danny Gatto and trainers Dave Hogberg and Donald Reidie.

The season opens in early June and the Dolphins will play a 10-game schedule with five home and five away games.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

One of two former William Head prison inmates arrested last week in Toronto appeared Wednesday in Victoria provincial court.

John Glendon Flett, 27, was charged with being unlawfully at large between Dec. 29, 1977, and Jan. 3 of this year, and with hit and run on Dec. 29, 1977.

Flett and 31-year-old Anthony Vito Genovese were arrested together last weekend and Flett was returned to Victoria while Genovese, at large since Jan. 1, 1977, remained in Toronto to face other charges.

Judge Harold Alder granted legal-aid lawyer Brian MacKenzie's application for a remand until next Wednesday for election of trial method on behalf of Flett.

Defence lawyer Ken Walton entered a guilty plea to common assault for Joseph Frank Parisien, 3925 Glanford, originally charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Crown counsel Don Laughton told the court Parisien, at about 11.30 a.m. May 5, punched a man getting into his car at the Juan de Fuca recreation centre parking lot and also slammed the car door on his fingers. Laughton said five stitches were required to close the wound to the victim's fingers.

Laughton said Parisien told arresting RCMP officers from Colwood he thought the victim was someone who had beaten him up previously.

Walton told the court his client had received two black eyes, a cut nose, swollen face and scratches to his back in the earlier fight and that the May 5 incident was a case of mistaken identity because of alcohol.

Philip Cespedes-Holt, 17, of 1250 Balmoral was charged with breaking and entering St. Patricks school, 2368 Trent, Saanich.

Laughton said Cespedes-Holt was on probation and bail at the time of the break-in and agreed with Alder that the burden of proof for the bail hearing shifted to the young man.

Fined for drinking-driving were: Richard Andrew George, 21, of Lazar Road, $500; Michael Lorne Swannell, 37, of 2912 Corrine Place, $400; Robert James Wilson, 50, of 2772 Herd Road, Duncan, $400; Gerald Girohard, 20, of 1158 Yates, $400, and Norma Irene Thomas, 26, of 2772 Mt. Newton Cross Road, $50.

In addition, Mrs. Thomas was fined $100 after pleading guilty to driving without a valid driver's licence and was ordered to perform 150 hours of community service work in connection with the drinking-driving charge.

'CUT OUT THE ROUGH-HOUSIN'....I CAN'T HARDLY HEAR COWBOY BOB!'

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

In the National Open Pairs Championships of 1975, today's deal gave the various North-South pairs quite a headache. When I happened to be kibitzing the deal at one of the tables, our South declarer indulged in a bit of "card reading" to fulfill his contract.

Neither side vulnerable.
East deals.

NORTH
♠ K 8
♡ 7 5 4
◇ 10 4
♣ A K J 10 8 3

WEST	EAST
♠ 10 7 6	♠ A 4 2
♡ Q J 8 6	♡ A
◇ 9 7 5 3 2	◇ K Q 8 6
♣ 5	♣ Q 9 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ Q J 9 5 3
♡ K 10 9 3 2
◇ A J

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♡	Pass	3 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Three of ◇.

After winning the opening diamond lead with his ace, declarer cashed the ace and king of clubs, discarding his jack of diamonds on the second club lead. Unhappily for him, West ruffed this lead. West then led a second diamond, South trumping East's king.

Based on the bidding, East almost surely possessed the ace of trumps and the ace of spades. Declarer would have liked to get to dummy to lead a heart towards his king, but there was just no entry to dummy available: a spade lead to dummy's king would be taken by East's ace.

Declarer reverted to be bidding. East had opened the bidding with one diamond and, at the completion of trick three, he had been revealed as the possessor of five clubs. Thus East had at least nine card in the minor suits. So declarer indulged in the wishful thinking that East had been dealt the singleton ace of trumps.

After ruffing West's diamond return at trick four, South led the three of trumps out of his own hand — and was rewarded when East captured this lead with his ace. East now made a mistake: he led a diamond (instead of a club). South discarded a spade and ruffed the trick in dummy. A trump was then led to south's king, felling west's jack. Next came a spade to dummy's king, East winning with the ace. Belatedly, East played back the queen of clubs, which South ruffed with his next-to-last trump. It didn't matter whether or not West overruffed with the queen, for declarer's spades were all winners. His only losers were three trumps and a spade.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Friday, May 26
By SUDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on making inquiries to the powers-that-be; you can get results, promotion, prestige and have views vindicated. Don't be shy — be gregarious, very social, versatile and display mervelous sense of humor. No one is holding you back — except you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lunar aspect points to correspondence, travel, education, recognition of spiritual qualities. Search for "escape hatch" is finished. You will see a clear outline of potential. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio persons figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dig beneath surface indications. Accept love. Don't condemn one for caring for you, desiring you, wanting the best for you. Means elevate self-esteem. Then love will find its way into your heart. Yes, make some changes — and make special study of written material.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Make domestic change, adjustment; beautify srroundings. Creative compfomise will promote family harmony. Accent on contractual obligations, public relations, cooperative efforts — and marriage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are not seeing situation clearly. You are filling in spaces through haze of wishful thinking. Yes, enjoy romance, but don't lead with your chin. In business, verify claims . . . insist on facts, not projected fancy. Pisces, Virgo individuals are part of your personal scenario.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Build, invest, handle more responsibility, find creative outlet for opinions, talents. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure prominently. Love is in picture. If you are not serious, get away. Costs are high and commitment is solid and binding.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Obtain hint from Virgo message. Check materials, insist on quality, build on solid structure. Spotlight on security, long-range projects, where you live, older family member. Complete transactions. Tidy loose ends — you get long-distance communications which should inspire confidence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on courage of convictions, getting to heart of matters, making new starts, taking trips, imparting messages to relatives. Be busy, creative — and be aware of vitamin-nutritional requirements. Leo, Aquarius persons are in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Stress getting money's worth. Locate lost articles. Check price lists, budgets and bargains. Hunch pays dividends. You learn through process of teaching. Aquarian could be involved. Collect what you need. Your councel will be sought by one you respect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Element of luck rides with you, Number 3 figures prominently. Opportunities abound. Key is to be selective. Emphasize direct contacts, personality, flexibility, distribution of material. Gemini, Sagittarius persons could be part of scenario.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Restrictions are part of picture. Temporary delay should not be used as excuse for morbidity. Ride with tide. Permit healing processes to operate. Reconstruct, check subtle or hidden meanings. Know, also, that being alone is not same as being lonely. You'll win!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Wish comes true. Give aid and comfort to Aquarian who might be confined to home or hospital. Accent on establishing bind of friendship. Be analytical without shutting door to play, romance, creative endeavors.

IF MAY 26 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are passionate, stubborn, temperamental, versatile and capable of running a business of your own. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. June could be your most significant month of 1978, a year in which you collect data, establish meaningful relationships and improve financial status.

Crofton Workers To Get Lung Tests

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union officials say mill workers at the B.C.Forest Products plant in Crofton will be tested for possible airborne contaminants which may be affecting their lungs.

The testing is being sponsored by the largest union in the plant, the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada (PPWC). Full support is being given by the company as well as by the Canadian Paperworkers Union, the other union represented in the plant.

The three parties are sharing the cost of the study, estimated to be between $6,000 and $10,000.

Union officials became aware of the availability of the tests while attending the PPWC national convention last March, where a talk on similar test at the Alcan aluminum smelter in Kitimat, was given.

Results of the tests in Kitimat caused much controversy when it was found that 30 per cent of those tested were affected by some form of lung disorder directly related to their occupation.

Jim Young, second vice-president of the PPWC local at Crofton, said it is not expected that anything like these results will be evident in Crofton.

The program is voluntary, but Young said the union expects that 80 per cent of the more than 1,000 workers to take part.

He said the workers will be given reports.

BLOCK BROTHERS PURCHASE OFFER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Block Brothers Industries Ltd. of Vancouver has confirmed that a Canadian corporation is seeking to buy the company's publicly-held shares.

Although board chairman Arthur Block declined to identify the buyer, British Columbia market analysts said a Toronto-based company, with no real estate sales outlets in Western Canada, has made the offer for Block's shares, about 80 per cent of which are publicly-owned.

Management is believed to own about 20 per cent of the company's shares with no single shareholder having control of the company.

The company said in a release Tuesday that details of the offer soon will be made public.

Judge Removed From Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Supreme Court Justice J. G. Gould Wednesday prohibited a provincial court judge in Smithers from continuing with a trial because he handled the case improperly.

Justice Gould said Judge A. S. K. Cook's trial against 12 native people became so tainted with extraneous and inadmissable evidence that he risked not giving the Indians a fair trial.

They were charged under the Federal Fisheries Act.

Lawyer Stuart Rush, appearing for the Indians here, said the judge wanted to investigate allegations that the fisheries department was using the charges to pressure the Indians into signing an agreement on a policing problem in the area.

Native Rites Defended

CHILLIWACK (CP) — A rigorous four-day initiation into spiritual dancing, which preceded the death last December of Elliot Henry, must be retained if native people are to defeat the ravages of drug and alcohol abuse, a native Indian said Wednesday.

Stephen Point, testifying at in inquest into Henry's death, said Henry became gravely ill on the fourth day of the initiation, and died in his arms while being taken to hospital.

"He (Henry) said on that morning that he wasn't feeling well," said Point, testifying under protection of the Canada Evidence Act. "He was breathing fast and his hands were very cold as if there was no circulation in them."

Point said the initiation is a last-chance rebirth for Indians fighting a losing battle with drugs and alcohol — "people who have never been successful."

"Our people are suffering from what some call cultural shock," he said. "They get criticized for drinking a lot but they are faced with many social problems."

Point said the purpose of the longhouse ceremonies is to teach Indians their heritage and allow them to take pride in their traditions, which before the arrival of the white man did not include the abuse of drugs and alcohol.

The inquest has heard medical evidence that Henry had severe liver and heart damage due to alcoholism and that the stress of his four-day initiation had caused the fatal cardiac arrest en route to the hospital.

Indians, Whites In Dispute

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Muckamuck, believed to be the only restaurant in North America serving authentic native Indian dishes, has been hit by a labor dispute which pits Indian workers against white management.

The conflict escalated Tuesday with management applying to the British Columbia Labor Relations Board for an order prohibiting alleged picketing.

The union, Local 1 of the Service, Office and Retail Workers Union of Canada (SORWVC), countered with three complaints of its own to the board, which hopes to settle the latest flare-up in informal hearings before it returns to the original task of dealing with five charges of unfair labor practices against the restaurant.

The Indians claim the restaurant is owned by "white people who are using the native culture to make money."

Management replies that it has gone out of its way to maintain a policy of hiring at least 90 per cent native Indian employees.

"It started out as a labor dispute, but it exploded into a racial dispute," said Rey George, who the union claims was fired.

Keep 1-Man Party, Tory Leader Urges

Progressive Conservative leader Vic Stephens urged the electoral reform commission Wednesday not to change the special status of splinter parties in the British Columbia legislature.

Stephens and Liberal leader Gordon Gibson, both the only members of their respective parties in the legislature, receive an extra $8,500 a year as leaders of their political parties and have more research staff than a normal MLA who earns $24,000 a year.

One area currently being studied by Judge Lawrence Eckardt in his Royal commission on electoral reform is the status of parties in the house.

There has been past discussion that one representative should not receive party status.

In the House of Commons, a party must have 12 sitting members before it gets party status.

Stephens' submission points to the fact that in the last provincial election the Liberals and Conservative pooled 143,000 votes.

"The Conservative and Liberal leaders should not be handicapped in their efforts to represent this large segment of our votes," he said.

Stephens contends he and Gibson should get more money because they have extra work to do.

"My success in the future depends to a large extend on the few additional services available to party leaders." he added.

Explosive Shell Uncovered

VERNON (CP) — Explosives experts from Canadian Forces Base Chilliwack were called here Wednesday after a water investigation branch crew located an exploded smoke shell in water weeds on Kalamalka Lake.

The area where the shell was found is a few yards from a public beach and on the foreshore of a housing development.

Military sources said the area was a training site during the Second World War, and although it had been swept for exploded and unexploded missiles on land, the underwater area had not been checked.

BEAT MOTHER, JAILED 6 MONTHS

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Leslie Earl Ragan, 20, of has been sentenced to six months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm to his mother.

Provincial court Judge George Stewart was told Tuesday that Gertrude Ragan was slapped, kicked and struck with a .22-calibre rifle.

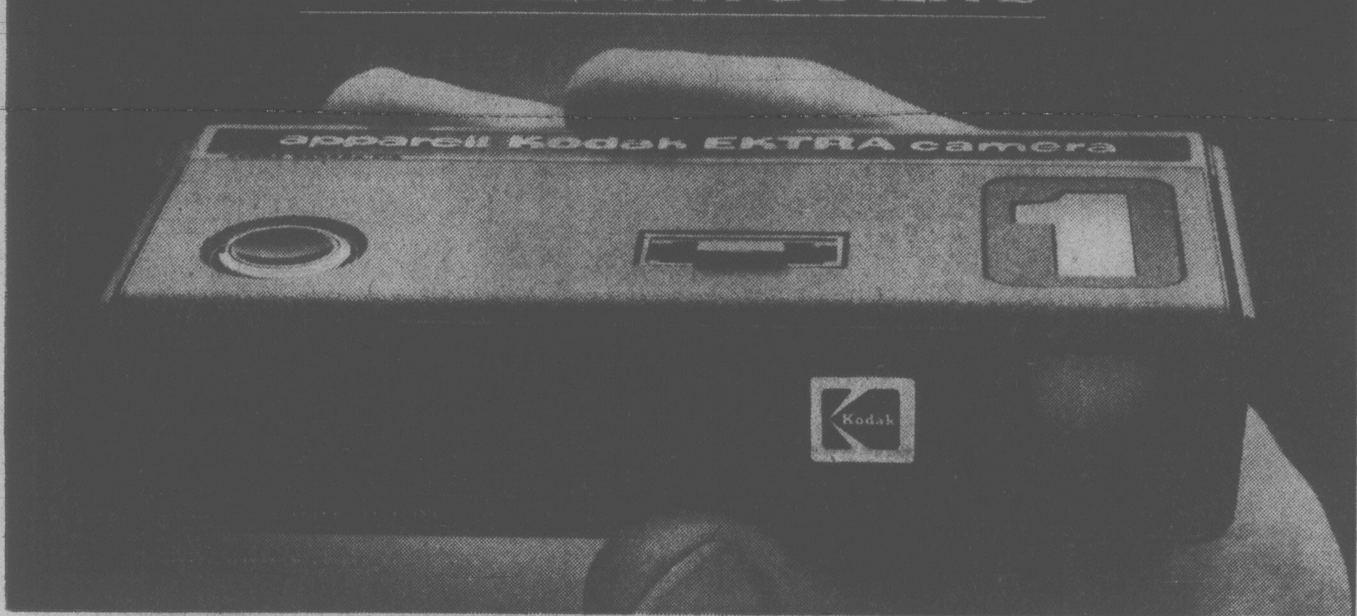
KODAK EKTRA® CAMERAS



A NEW GENERATION OF CAMERAS FOR PEOPLE'S POCKETS.

Kodak, was the first to put photography into people's pockets. And now we've put more into pockets, with new Kodak Ektra cameras. Kodak Ektra cameras are a new generation of pocket cameras, sensibly-priced, top quality. For action shots. Shade shots. Telephoto shots. Indoors and outdoors. With or without flash. Now, all these pictures are possible with new Kodak Ektra cameras–the cameras that adjust automatically to both normal and super-fast color print films (such as Kodacolor 400 film).

FASTER SPEEDS.
Every new Kodak Ektra camera uses a combination of faster shutter speeds and fast 400ASA film to reduce blurred pictures resulting from camera and/or subject movement.

TELEPHOTO SHOTS WITHOUT MOVING AN INCH.
Two new Kodak Ektra cameras, the Tele-Ektra 1 and the Tele-Ektra 2, have versatile two-lens system. That enables you to go from normal to telephoto with a simple flick of a switch. This popular feature comes in handy when you can't move closer to your subject.

FOUR BRAND NEW KODAK EKTRA CAMERAS TO CHOOSE FROM.

Kodak Tele-Ektra 1 camera. Like having two cameras in one! Normal and telephoto pictures at the flick of a switch. Actually brings them twice as close. *Outfit price $42.80.

Kodak Ektra 2 camera. Load with 400 film and you can take outdoor action shots, indoor action shots (with electronic flash), shade shots, even shots in well-lighted arenas–without flash! Outfit price $49.95. Outfit price with electronic flash $69.95.

Kodak Tele-Ektra 2 camera. Get all the action shots, shade shots. Plus all the advantages of taking both normal and telephoto shots. The works! Outfit price $65.00. Outfit price with electronic flash $86.00.

A DUST COVER THAT DOUBLES AS A HANDLE.
Three of the new Kodak Ektra cameras offer a uniquely designed protective cover that acts as a steadying grip for shooting.

A NEW GENERATION OF FILM
Daylight, low-light and fast action. No problem for new Kodacolor 400 film. Kodacolor 400 not only increases your daylight and low-light shooting situations but also effectively increases the distance range for flash shots. All four new cameras automatically adjust for 400 speed film such as Kodacolor 400. See all the new Kodak Ektra camera outfits at your photo dealer's. You'll see why we say Ektra cameras give you more pictures, more places, more often.

Suggested list price. Actual price determined by dealer. Prices subject to change without notice. All Kodak cameras carry a full three-year warranty.*

Citrus are Self Preserving

QUESTION: I live alone and often enjoy a fresh half grapefruit as part of my breakfast. I wrap the remaining half in plastic and keep it in my refrigerator for the next day. Will the vitamin C content be lost?

ANSWER: No, vitamin C is protected in fresh citrus fruit. This unique protection is the result of a substance contained in the fruit which inhibits the oxidation of vitamin C. The same substance prevents discoloration of sliced avocados, bananas and apples when they are sprinkled with citrus juice. Fresh citrus is subject to very little vitamin C loss during shipping, storage and preparation for eating.

QUESTION: For some time, my husband has experienced gastric discomfort after drinking a glass of milk. Could he eat yoghurt without feeling the same distressing effects?

ANSWER: Yes, it is possible that he may be able to tolerate yoghurt when he has difficulty digesting fresh milk. Yoghurt, which is made by a fermentation process, has a lower lactose content than fresh milk. Some people secrete insufficient quantities of the enzyme lactase which is required to digest lactose, the sugar found in milk. This disruption in the digestive process can cause such problems as abdominal pain, diarrhea and flatulence. By excluding milk and milk products from your husband's diet, you would be eliminating good sources of such nutrients as protein, calcium, riboflavin and vitamin D. If he can tolerate yoghurt, he should also be able to eat cheese. He may also be able to drink milk in small quantities.

QUESTION: I recently read that to avoid constipation you should eat foods with a high fibre content. What foods would you recommend?

ANSWER: The best sources of fibre include wholegrain breads and cereals, especially those containing bran. Fruits and vegetables, particularly those eaten raw or with the skin on, are also good sources. The typical Canadian diet consisting primarily of refined breads and cereals, dairy products and meat has a low fibre content — approximately two to five grams per day. On the contrary, the unrefined diet of, for example, a rural African population contains 18 grams of fibre daily. The latter population also has a lower incidence of constipation and diseases of the large bowel. This fact, plus the finding of recent medical research, is the basis for the recommendation for Canadians to increase the fibre content of their diets.

THIS SNACK'S NOT JUNKY

Mary Moore

If you can tolerate a little boasting, this was declared a scoop on the health food bar market.

It is chewy and easy and has at least nine or 10 health food ingredients and is a snack par excellence for hungry people.

If you can, purchase all health food ingredients in bulk at your Health Food Store and they will be fresh.

BEEKEEPERS

2 cups unsweetened desiccated coconut
1½ cups rolled oats
1½ cups raisins
1¼ cups sesame seeds
1 cup shelled, unsalted sunflower seeds
¾ cup unsalted peanuts
½ cup chopped, dried apricots or dried apples or dried pears or prunes (or combination — optional but highly recommended)
½ tsp. salt (see note below)
1 cup liquid honey
1 tsp. pure vanilla extract
¼ cup peanut butter

(Note: If sunflower seeds and peanuts are salted, then reduce the amount of salt to ¼ teaspoon.)

In a large bowl combine thoroughly the coconut, rolled oats, raisins, sesame seeds, sunflower seeds, peanuts, chopped, dried fruit and salt.

In a small bowl stir together honey, vanilla and peanut butter. Add to dry ingredients and blend thoroughly. (It takes less time to mix with your hands if you do not mind the stickiness and is easier to make sure all dry ingredients have been well coated.)

Pack into a lightly greased 9x12" teflon pan. Press down evenly and smooth top with the back of a large spoon. Place pan on a cookie sheet and bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes or until barely tinged with gold. Cool completely on cake rack. Chill in refrigerator several hours before cutting into bars. Makes about 27 bars 1⅛"x2½".

ORIENTAL CHICKEN

50 ml oil
25 ml vinegar
10 ml soy sauce
4 ml ginger
2 ml salt
0.5 ml pepper
10 ml brown sugar
1 chicken leg.

Combine all ingredients except chicken leg and blend well. Pour marinade over chicken and let stand 2 to 3 hours at room temperature, turning several times. Drain off and reserve marinade. Bake at 180°C until tender (about 50 minutes), turning halfway through cooking. heat reserved marinade and pour over chicken before serving. 1 serving.

Fish Steak Beats Beef

Food for Thought

Many of us who look upon fish as one of our better food choices have lamented the growing scarcity of those delicious favorites, cod, haddock and lobster. Fortunately, there are dozens of other varieties of fish that are just as tasty and nutritious and much more plentiful.

Oftentimes, we look upon fish as a poor third to red meats and poultry. But as a main-course choice, fish may be a better bet nutritionally. Its protein is just as high in quality as that of meat or poultry, yet fish is lower in calories.

Lean fish, such as cod and its little-known cousin, pollock, is almost all protein, with less than 15 per cent of its calories in fat. Compare that to a tender steak, with about 50 per cent of its calories in fat, or the 75 per cent fat calories in some hamburgers or hot dogs. Even fish that are high in fat, such as salmon or sardines, are lower in calories than most meats.

About 100 grams — that's 3½ ounces — of mackerel, halibut or mullet (all medium-fat fish) contain 100 to 160 calories, compared with about 300 calories for the same size serving of ham. What's more, the fat in fish tends to be high in polyunsaturated fatty acids — an important consideration to those who must watch their cholesterol.

Various fish are also important sources of many vitamins and minerals. A four-ounce serving of sardines, for example, will provide half a day's recommended dietary allowance of calcium. Oysters are particularly good sources of zinc, while shrimp are high in magnesium and copper. Fish also contain fluorine.

As for vitamins, fish provide good amounts of three important B vitamins — pyridoxine (B-6), thiamin and riboflavin. Fatty fish are high in vitamin D.

Fish are also good "extenders." For example, fish are particularly rich in the amino acid lysine, which is low in rice and other cereal grains. So by using a small amount of fish with rice in a Chinese-style meal, you will end up with complete, high-quality protein.

Still, many people fault fish on one important feature — taste. Again, we feel that fish have an undeserved poor reputation in this repect. There are many different flavors and textures, ranging from the sweet, almost nutty crunchiness of scallops, to the almost meaty flavor and texture of swordfish. When properly selected and prepared, fish can be as delicious and as "interesting" as any meat or poultry.

Of course, you may ask about the growing shortage of fish. Can the seas really provide enough to meet the world's growing need for high-protein foods? World-wide, we are currently only able to find about the same amount of fish as was caught in 1970.

Controlling pollution of our oceans, lakes and rivers is also an important element in protecting a vital food supply. In addition, we need a more orderly approach to fish farming. Just as we have domesticated animals that were once hunted, we need to learn more about growing fish to expand the supply.

In the meantime, we urge you to try a wide variety of fish. Invest in a good fish cookbook, and when shopping, look for fresh fish that has a moist, firm flesh and a delicate, non-fishy odor. Or select fish that has been flash frozen and maintained at zero degrees or colder.

We suspect that if you and your family are not already fish fans, you will be once you discover the variety of delicious, low-cost dishes that can be built around fish.

Rattan furniture must be sturdy to last for years. Test it by putting your body weight onto the arms to see if they wobble. Is the back of a chair or sofa well-braced to support your weight? Rubber webbing or metal springs under the cushion should not be attached to the rattan. All bindings should be smooth and securely fastened. Leg stretchers are another sign of a sturdy, quality rattan piece.

Finnish scientists say: Baldness can be halted.

LONDON — Two Finnish scientists say they have designed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product, called Bioscal, contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hair and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

FREE FOR THE ASKING

By HARRIET HART

Supermarkets stock a wide variety of frozen ocean and lake fish fillets. You will probably find packages of fillets in solid blocks, individually wrapped or precooked in various forms, such as batter-coated, breaded or in a sauce.

The 20-page booklet Frozen Fillets tells you that frozen fish does not have to be thawed before cooking, unless this makes handling easier. In fact, fish remains juicier if it is cooked from the frozen state.

An excellent way to cook a package of frozen fillets is to bake it. To keep the surface moist during cooking, add a simple sauce or topping.

Individual frozen fillets are great when baked in a steam-tight envelope of aluminum foil. For a surprise meal, cook frozen fillets and vegetables together in individual foil dinner packets.

You can also successfully broil individual fillets without defrosting them. Suitable recipes are in the booklet.

In addition, the booklet says that fillets can be pan-fried from the frozen state but fillet blocks should first be thawed. If you fry fish from the frozen state, be careful, because there is a tendency for the hot fat to splatter.

Recipes for some tasty sauces which will add interest to pre-cooked breaded or batter-fried fillets are also included in the booklet.

A Pasta for Every Sauce

craig claiborne

There is probably not one person in a thousand who knows that the countless sauces destined for pasta cannot, in the classic sense, be used arbitrarily with all pasta regardless of shape, size, color and texture.

Put otherwise, you cannot serve, indiscriminately, all sauces with any kind of pasta. The rules for which sauce goes with which shape pasta cannot be reduced to a simple, absolute formula. But generalizations are very much in order.

''Generally speaking,'' Marcella Hazan said recently, ''sauces that contain pieces of things — things like chopped meat, peas, ham and so on — go well with a pasta that has a hole (like macaroni), or a shape that catches pieces, spiral shapes, for example, and shells.

"Very thin sauces are destined for pasta like spaghetti or vermicelli. But there is an exception. If the sauce has a base of olive oil and contains clams, scallops, chopped fish or seafood, pasta strands such as spagheti would be quite suitable. Think of linguine with clam sauce.

''Homemade pastas — freshly made pasta strands — go best with sauces that must be absorbed, which is to say sauces that cling. Like the cream and cheese sauce tossed with fettucine and known as Alfredo. You would never — or shouldn't — serve packaged spaghetti with that sauce."

"Some pastas," she continued, "like tubular pasta or pastas with a hole such as long strands of perciatelli, are destined to be cooked briefly, or at least to let stand briefly covered, so that the perfume and flavors of the sauce permeate to a slight degree the 'walls' or 'tubes' of the pasta."

Like most fine Italian cooks, she employs both packaged (preferably imported) pastas and pasta made in the home. She is firm in her belief that homemade pasta rolled by hand is superior to that prepared by machine.

As a concession, she agreed to prepare pasta in my kitchen using the machine. As she worked, she talked about other fine points in making and cooking pasta.

"Pasta," she said, "is unlike pastry dough. Pasta hates cold. Pastry dough can improve with refrigeration because it is made with fat such as butter or shortening. And pasta should always be rolled on a wood or Formica surface. Not marble, which is prized by pastry cooks, because it tends to be cold."

She added: ''the more water you use to cook spaghetti or other pasta, the faster it cooks."

Marcella Hazan is the author of one of the finest books on Italian cookery, The Classic Italian Cook Book published for her cooking classes held each year in Manhattan and in Bologna, Italy. She has recently completed her second volume, "More Classic Italian Cooking," to be published in October by Alfred A. Knopf.

Pasta authority Marcella Hazan

HOMEMADE PASTA

1¾ cups semolina (durum wheat flour)
3 large eggs (three-quarter cup).

1. Empty the flour onto a wooden or Formica surface. Make a well in the centre and neatly build up a "wall" to surround the eggs. Start beating the eggs with a fork gradually incorporating the flour.

2. Do not let the egg overflow but keep the wall built around by pushing with the fingers toward the centre.

3. When the eggs have lost their fluidity (will not overflow the walls) start pushing the flour into the egg mixture, kneading gently, and continue working the flour all over the surface to incorporate all the flour.

4. Remove the pasta. Wash and dry the board and start kneading again by hand. This gets more elastic. Turn the ball of dough as it is kneaded. It gets the texture of satiny, non-sticky modelling clay. Wrap in plastic. Let it rest eight minutes. When you open it the pasta will seem sticky again. Do not add more flour.

5. Remove the pasta from the plastic wrapping and shape it into a ball. Cut it into five pieces of more or less equal size. Set the pasta machine opening to wide (No. 6). Flatten each of the five pieces of pasta dough. Run the pieces through the machine, one at time, without changing the setting. Arrange them on a clean cloth as they are put through. Reduce the setting to the next smaller opening and put the pieces through. When the pasta has gone through the No. 4 opening, stop rolling.

6. Cut each strip of pasta crosswise at the centre point. This will make 10 pieces. Reduce the opening by half and put the 10 strips of pasta through the opening. Let them dry on the cloth, turning from time to time. Let dry for 30 minutes, more or less. Put the sheets of pasta through any desired cutter to produce the shape and-or width you desire. The sheets of pasta when rolled out fine may also be cut by hand for widths the cutters cannot accommodate.

Yield: 1 pound of pasta or 4 to 6 servings.

Note: One way to test whether the pasta is dry enough: Put one small sheet of pasta through the fine cutter of the machine. If the strands stick together and have to be pulled apart with the fingers, the pasta should be allowed to dry longer.

HOMEMADE TONNARELLI (A Finely Cut, Square-shaped Pasta)

Prepare one recipe for home-made pasta. When the sheets of pasta have been dried briefly as indicated, put them through the finer cutter of the machine. If the pasta is not to be used immediatley, take a few strands of pasta and wrap them around the fingers, bird's nest fashion. Let stand until thoroughly dry like bought pasta. They will later be easier to handle.

To cook, drop the pasta into boiling salted water. Cook until just tender, less than a minute after the water returns to the boil. Drain.

SUGO DI CANESTRELLI (Pasta with Scallops)

1½ pints scallops
⅓ cup plus four tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons finely chopped garlic
2½ tablespoons finely chopped flat leaf parsley
Salt to taste
¼ teaspoon finely chopped hot red pepper flakes
2 pounds homemade tonnarelli (use twice the recipe for tonnarelli) or use spaghetti or vermicelli cooked to the desired degree of doneness, and drained
¼ cup toasted bread crumbs.

1. Cut each scallop in half. Cut each half in two. Set aside.

2. Heat the one-third cup of oil in a wide saucepan and add the garlic. Cook briefly, stirring but without browning.

3. Add the scallop pieces and parsley and three tablespoons of oil, stirring. Add the salt and hot red pepper. Cook about one minute and set aside.

4. Toss the pasta and add the remaining tablespoon of oil. Add the scallop mixture. Sprinkle with toasted bread crumbs. Toss and serve.

CHEESEY NUT COOKIES

125 ml butter
125 ml sugar
1 egg yolk
250 ml (100 g) grated mild cheddar cheese
5 ml vanilla
Dash nutmeg
250 ml sifted all-purpose flour
125 ml chopped nuts

Cream together butter and sugar. Add egg yolk, cheese, vanilla and nutmeg, blending well. Add flour and nuts to creamed mixture. Roll dough in small balls and press flat with floured fork. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 160°C until lightly browned (12 to 15 min.). Makes about 30 cookies.

Maple Tarts

50 mL butter
75 mL cornstarch
300 mL maple syrup
100 mL water
12 baked tart shells

Melt butter, blend in cornstarch. Stir in maple syrup and water. Bring mixture to a boil, stir and cook until thick. Continue cooking 5 min. more, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and cool 15 min. Spoon into tart shells. Makes 12 tarts.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: What happens to parents when they become grandparents? Mine are too young to be getting senile, but they certainly don't show nearly the good judgment in handling MY children that they did when they raised me.

My parents ruled their children with an iron hand. No back talk, we did as we were told, and if we forgot our manners, we heard about it. We weren't permitted to eat between meals, and we had to be in bed with lights out at a certain time, and no nonsense.

But you should see the way they handle our children! All rules and regulations laid down at home are out the window at the grandparents' house. The kids whine and beg until they get their own way. They talk back, and are fed soft drinks, candy and cookies — all they want at all hours. And thy don't have to nap or do anything they don't want to do.

I love my parents, Abby, but I wish they'd realize how tough they are making it for me when they do this. It's difficult for children of any age to tell their parents anything, so even though this is from Iowa, I hope you won't think it's too corny for your column.

PERPLEXED MOM

DEAR MOM: There's a kernel of truth in almost every corny letter. Let's hope your parents have ears, too. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I am in the armed forces. I love the service, but most of all, I love my parents. Before I came into the service I felt I knew just about everything. I was sure my parents no longer needed me, and all I could think of was the day I would be "on my own."

The first time I realized how much my parents cared was the day they took me to the airport to see me off. When my father said goodbye to me, he broke down and cried. I had never seen my father cry before, and I won't forget it as long as I live. I have had a lot of time to think. I never told my father I loved him, and I gave both my parents a hard time when they tried to guide me for my own good.

Now I write home every chance I get, and I am trying to make up for all the heartaches I must have caused them, and for my failure to be a better son. When my next leave comes up, I am going home to get acquainted with my wonderful parents.

I have written this letter in hopes that other thoughtless teenagers will wake up before it's too late. Thanks, Abby, for letting me get this off my chest.

WISER NOW

DEAR WISER: And thank you for a wonderful letter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BOB B.: No one said it better than Benjamin Franklin: "If a man empties his purse into his head, no man can take it away from him. An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest." Please, hang in there and get your degree.

EGGS LACK A CRACKING IMAGE

HALIFAX (CP) — If the common egg could be shown as a way to enhance a person's sex life instead of just his health there is a strong probability that sales would soar, a Canadian health expert said here Tuesday.

Rafael Legaria, assistant program director with Canada World Youth, made that comment in an address to an international health conference.

"Our country's cultural values are such that we cannot promote nutrition per se," he said. "Nutrition in itself just doesn't constitute a cultural value.

"Eggs, you can be sure, would sell much better if they improved one's sex life instead of one's health."

In spite of the problems of promoting nutrition there are scores of fast-food chains that have made millions in spite of little attention to nutrition, he said.

"These chains are not marketing hamburgers and french fries nearly as well as they market clean windows, spotless bathrooms, convenience, speedy service and well-groomed polite employees," he said.

Hormone Problem?

My 14-year-old daughter has an excess amount of hair on the face and on her arms and legs. She is so embarrassed by it that she seems to shy away from any social activity or friends. She even hates to go to school. Do you advise electrolysis?—Mrs. D.G.G.

Dear Mrs. G.:

"Hirsutism" is the medical term for the excess growth of hair. It is obvious that your daughter's problem needs thorough investigation, rather than the simple recommendation of electrolysis.

Although electrolysis done by well-trained technicians is very effective for limited areas, excess growth of hair may be just one symptom of some underlying hormone or endocrine problem. Consequently, specialists in endocrinology are now doing exhaustive studies to determine when the male and female sex hormones, normally present in all males and females, are not in proper balance. These studies are absolutely essential in your daughter's case if the exact cause of her hirsutism is to be pinpointed. Very often, if the cause is isolated, readjustment of the hormone balance can be extremely effective. Now is the time to do this, before the psychological impact of excess growth of hair becomes an unbearable burden to your daughter.

I recently read about an outburst of botulism that scared me. I travel a great deal and would like to know how I can protect myself against this.—Mr. C.M.

Dear Mr. M.:

Botulism is a severe form of food poisoning. Unlike most other kinds of food poisoning, botulism is not usually accompanied by nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. This severe, and often dangerous, disease is caused by a toxic substance that is produced by a bacillus of the clostridium group. This group manufactures a number of different toxins that are poisonous and affect the nerves and the brain. Fortunately, antitoxins are available and are lifesaving when this type of food poisoning is diagnosed early.

Health standards are so exacting that the frequency of outbreaks of botulism is markedly reduced. The manufacture of preserved foods in which the toxin is most commonly found is now under careful scrutiny, in order to be sure that the botulism toxin is destroyed. It is known that cooking foods at 80 degrees centigrade (176 F) for 30 minutes safeguards against botulism.

How do you protect yourself against this possibility in your travels? Know your restaurants. Avoid the obviously dirty ones, even though your hunger pains are acute and the prices are attractive. Know the manufacturer of preserved and canned foods whenever possible. Large manufacturing plants with known reputations are exceptionally careful to be sure that no contamination of any kind occurs in their food processing.

Shift Work Hard On Digestion?

TORONTO (CP) — At least 10 per cent of Canadian workers spend part of their time working night shifts and they are paying a high price in their physical, emotional and social lives.

Postal workers, policemen, bartenders and factory workers complain of inability to adjust, chronic fatigue, headaches, indigestion, stomach trouble and a drastically reduced social life.

They say the quality of life in general is reduced as a result of regular night work or of continuous switching from nights to days back to nights without time to readjust.

A document recently published by the Public Service Alliance of Canada, representing 177,000 federal civil servants, concluded that "in the long run, shift work is detrimental to health, efficiency and the enjoyment of life."

A report by the Labor Council of Metropolitan Toronto observed that "studies show that shift workers die younger than thejr counterparts who just work days."

It cited recommendations by the International Labor Organization (ILv$a UN agency, that night workers have shorter work hours and be given extra days off and longer holidays to recover from the stress which night work imposes on the mind and body.

The ILO and other research sources list these adverse side effects of shift work:

—Most shift workers suffer chronic fatigue because they sleep anywhere from 90 minutes to two hours less each day than other employees.

—The unusual working hours disrupt the appetite and digestion of shift workers. Many complain of losing weight or gaining weight. In one study, almost half the workers were taking a patent medicine for digestive disorders.

—Nervous-disorder complaints were 170 per cent more frequent among shift workers than regular day workers and peptic ulcers were 130 per cent more common.

—Shift workers consume above-average quantities of coffee, tobacco and pep pills to keep themselves awake and alcohol, tranquillizers and sleeping pills to help them relax.

—Shift workers suffer more frequently from colds, headaches, chest pains and menstrual problems.

—Research data "clearly indicate that people who rotate shifts have significantly more accidents than those who work permanent shifts."

Bio-dex

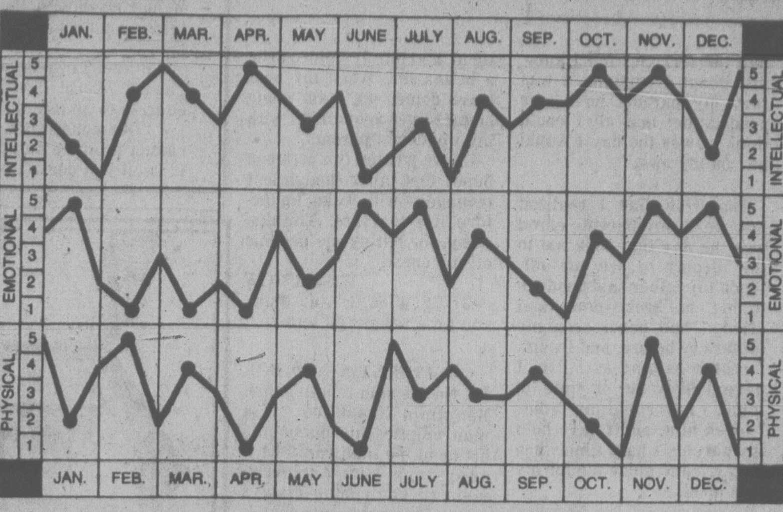
Your computerized biorhythm

© Copyright 1977

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Friends may go on the warpath if you don't keep quiet and stay calm.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	Your judgement is going to be slightly off. Have patience.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Romance will come shortly if you say the right words. Don't delay.

One of the more important information items that Bio-dex provides, according to many readers, is the emotional index and the effect it has on relationships with others. It's often said that the "heart rules the head" and truer words were never spoken. How many times have we done foolish things because our heart said "go ahead"? Next time this happens to you, hold back unless your emotional Bio-dex is high.

HOT DOG PEDIGREE

The Associated Press

Most of us think of hot dogs as being as North American as a gingham dress but hardly a gourmet offering. Wrong on both counts.

The succulent sausage is actually German, hailing from Frankfurt, whose citizens feel that their home town is the only locality entitled to claim the term frankfurter.

The Germans seem to be more aware of the versatility of this pungent sausage than we are and feature it in a dazzling variety of recipes from kebabs to casseroles.

Sausages have a long and colorful history, dating back at least to the eighth century BC, when Homer mentioned them in his Odyssey.

The ancient Romans were extremely fond of a sausage made from fresh pork and white pine nuts chopped fine with cumin seed, bay leaves and black pepper. It was so popular that it became the gustatory centrepiece of the ancient Lupercalian and Floralian festivals.

Sausage-making became a culinary art in the Middle Ages and, like the frankfurter, a number of favorites were named after the cities of their origin. They included Bologna from the Italian city of that name and Genoa salami from another Italian city.

As the years went by, many countries developed national specialties in the sausage field.

The British became noted for black pudding, a sausage made from oatmeal, suet and hog's blood. The French developed a white pudding of chicken, egg yolks, spices and bread crumbs. And in the U.S. it was the country sausage made from pork, potato flour, water and sage or other seasonings.

The frankfurter, as we know it, is made from beef, pork, veal or a combination of these meats.

LEADING KILLER

VANCOUVER — Atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries is by far the leading cause of death in developed countries today and it accounts for 60 per cent of the costs of hospital and out-patient treatment, Dr. Randolph Lee, Trial Director of St. Michael's Hospital Lipid Research Clinic in Toronto, told a gathering of 250 health professionals at a nutrition seminar here.

More than 50 per cent of all deaths in Canada are of cardiovascular origin, he added.

Dr. Lee outlined the Primary Coronary Prevention Study at the clinic which is one of a total of 15 clinics involved in an integrated research program in Canada, the U.S., Russia and Israel.

Some 300 male patients between the ages of 35-55 are currently involved in the special study at St. Michael's. These patients were selected because of a high beta cholesterol level.

Going Bankrupt Easier

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand announced changes in bankruptcy rules Wednesday that make it easier to go personally bankrupt.

Among the changes:

—A trustee in most cases may pay legal costs up to $100 without having them taxed by a court. Previously, the maximum allowed was $50.

—Official receivers' fees, which originally served to reimburse provincial governments that carried out the role of official receivers in a bankruptcy case, are abolished.

—For bankruptcy cases handled by summary administration, the registrar for the case will receive $10 and a complete new tariff for paying registrars is established.

—New forms will be used for wage-earner bankruptcy procedures, as opposed to business bankruptcies.

Horner Drags Up Stevens' Past

Times News Services

OTTAWA- Industry Minister Jack Horner launched a biting personal attack on Conservative finance critic Sinclair Stevens Wednesday, accusing Stevens of spreading rumors and being incapable of handling any portfolio for his party.

Horner, a former Conservative who has never made any secret of animosity between himself and Stevens, reached back 12 years and dragged out the MP's abortive attempt by Stevens and others to set up the Bank of Western Canada.

Horner's attack came shortly after Stevens acknowledged in the Commons he had no evidence to substantiate allegations he made last week that nine Liberals speculated on the falling Canadian dollar this year. Stevens withdrew the charges and apologized to the House.

Speaking later, as the House debated the government's budget bill, Horner said the proposed bank was a get-rich quick plan through which Stevens and his Toronto friends planned to "run a $195,000 pyramid and control $13 million — not a bad stroke of business if you can do it overnight.

"However, he was not able to do it."

He accused Stevens of trying to pocket the savings of Westerners with a plan to set up a consortium made up basically of his family and two other Torontonians.

"Here was the shining knight riding forth to the West to help them, to get rid of eastern bankers that were forever robbing and hurting great Western Canada." said Horner scornfully.

"He cared about his own pocket and not much else at the time."

He said Stevens hatched his bank at an opportune time- just when interest rates were about to be raised.

"Is he reliable? Is he capable of handling the finance portfolio?" Horner demanded.

The Bank of Western Canada was conceived by Stevens and James Coyne, former governor of the Bank of Canada. It never opened its doors and collapsed in internal disharmony in 1967, a year after it started.

Stevens, despite his apology, added later outside the Commons that he was not saying that he could not prove his allegations. He has said that until now he has no concrete evidence.

"I'm saying we do not yet have the hard evidence, the type of thing such as a document that would stand up in court," he said.

Stevens said he has been in indirect touch with sources — which he has variously described as bank or foreign exchange market sources — since he first brought the subject up last Thursday.

Singer's Nemesis Calls It Quits

VANCOUVER - Singer Terry Jacks says a man who has been impersonating him for two years, leaving a trail of bad cheques, unpaid hotel bills and broken hearts across the United States, has called it quits.

"The guy just phoned me and said the game was up," Jacks said. "He said he had been running from town to town and just couldn't take it anymore and wanted me to know he was giving it up."

Jacks has been after the imposter since he began receiving phone calls from people who said they had seen him on a local television station or caught his act in a small town. The problem is, said Jacks, he only rarely appears on Canadian television and has not performed in concert in several years.

Jacks said the imposter might have picked up his identity because Jacks has never been a highly visible performer.

"You can't really tell by my album covers what I really look like," Jacks said. "I guess it wasn't hard. He apparently read up on me, even had phoney ID saying he was the real thing."

Jacks said he received an unpaid hotel bill for $1,000 last year as well as a telephone call from an angry Maryland father who said the phoney Jacks had broken his 15-year-old daughter's heart and left her with a bad $500 cheque.

Jacks said the imposter, who described himself as 28, born in England and raised in Pittsburg, Pa., phoned collect from Phoenix, Ariz., and said he was not making much money and was only keeping one step ahead of the law.

The deciding factor was the betrayal of a close friend, Jacks said.

"The guys in his band all thought he was me and he'd change the members all the time. All except the guitarist."

The guitarist became suspicious, Jacks said.

"So the guy says that was it, he couldn't live that way anymore," said Jacks. "That was what broke him, letting down his friend that way."

Jacks said he wasn't sure whether to believe the imposter. He did, however, believe him enough to call off the search for the source of all those bad cheques.

Jacks might not have heard the last of the imposter — the man promised to send Jacks a song, one he hopes the real singer will record.

Arafat Leadership Faces Rift

Times News Services

BEIRUT — Yasser Arafat's leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization has been challenged by demands for a new command structure that would reduce the influence of Al Fatah, the largest guerrilla group.

A joint statement by the radical Rejection Front, opposed to a peaceful Middle East settlement with Israel, and by the pro-Soviet Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine made public Wednesday indirectly accused Arafat of autocratic rule.

Signed by leaders of five of the eight groups under the umbrella of the PLO, the statement did not mention Arafat by name. But it left no doubt that the 48-year-old guerrilla chief was the target of an attack on the current PLO leadership.

The PLO, meanwhile, has pledged to end its armed presence in southern Lebanon, pull out non-Palestinian volunteers in the area and peacefully coexist with UN peacekeeping forces there.

It said it acted to help "bring about a total Israeli withdrawal from the south and re-establish Lebanese sovereignty in the region."

The accord was reached Wednesday night in a three-hour meeting between Premier Salim el Hoss and a six-man PLO delegation headed by Arafat at the premier's suburban villa.

BLACK STAR FOR L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the fifth straight year, a group of airline pilots has ranked Los Angeles International Airport at the bottom of the list in safety because of an approach path the pilots don't like.

It is the only airport in the United States receiving the "black star" this year from the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations.

But airport officials are not perturbed.

"It gives us a certain air of distinction," said Clifton Moore, manager of the Los Angeles city department of airports. "I just wish we had a way to issue a rating also. It gets a lot of press attention."

Yard Uncovers Terror Factory

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard agents have uncovered a terrorist bomb-making hideout in west London and arrested two persons they say are members of a new anarchist group.

Armed detectives of the Yard's anti-terrorist squad raided an apartment in the seedy Bayswater district Wednesday and found chemicals and other materials used for making bombs, a spokesman said.

They arrested a man and a woman in their 20s under Prevention of Terrorism regulations.

Yard agents, who have broken several outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) cells in the last few years, have been investigating the emergence of what they term an anarchist group.

Yard sources said the group has no name and is a loose organization of young anarchists who help various causes. They did not elaborate.

How to Plant Squash

As the time approaches for buying and setting out squash plants, home gardeners recall failures with last year's crops and are now seeking causes in an effort to obtain better results this year.

After a careful analysis of several questions regarding squash and marrow plants which gradually shrivelled and died, the method of planting was found to be the fault.

This is the standard practice recommended in English gardening publications. The English marrow is subject to crown rot when grown in a damp cool soil. Raising the soil into a mound or hill ensures rapid drainage after rain or showers, and the soil around the crown of the plant quickly loses the moisture which causes rotting of the crown.

Hill planting is essential in parts of the British Isles subjected to rain showers on several days of each week throughout the growing season.

The weather pattern is quite different here on the southern end of Vancouver Island. In the first place we do not sow squash and marrow seed outdoors in March as advised for English conditions. We grow the seedlings indoors until the end of May.

Secondly, we do not have rain or showers every day or so from May to September, so that a mound of soil soon becomes dry and hard, incapable of holding the amount of water needed by these plants for reasonable growth.

Planting instructions for this area are exactly opposite to hill planting.

A large hole is dug, then filled with partly rotted and well rotted compost, and the surface slightly dished to hold water instead of being raised.

Since we depend on artificial watering, an open ended hose is placed in the depression and allowed to gently trickle long enough to thoroughly saturate the compost. Under normal conditions, no more water is needed for a week.

This is the only place where water can benefit the plant. Cold water sprayed over the vines retards growth and delays maturing of the fruits.

ROTTING FRUITS are experienced in many gardens, and the cause is faulty pollination of the flowers.

The fruits are actually seed cases. When the flowers are not pollinated no seed forms, so the plant withdraws the hormones which keep the fruit attached to the vine, and the food supply is cut off. The fruits then start rotting from the blossom end.

Frost, wind, and water are possible causes or poor pollination in the home garden. Frost can kill the reproductive organs; rain or water in the flower spoils the pollen; wind can blow ripe pollen away.

As the season advances we can eliminate frost and wind as causes although these are often responsible for rotting of early fruits.

This takes us back to the artificial watering of the plants. As soon as the first buds start opening, all overhead watering must cease. The same rule applies to strawberry, and tomato plants.

Water is needed only at the roots where it can be picked up together with nutrients from the soil and passed through the plant cells to the fruits. As mentioned above, cold water over the plants can be detrimental.

If we remember our dry summers and falls, use plenty of compost in the planting holes, make shallow depressions in the surface, and water only in this depression, the plants will grow well and produce good fruits once the weather is settled.

STADACONA CENTRE DELUXE

2-Bdrm - 1½ Baths With Fireplace
$59,900 - TERMS

Stadacona Centre consists of 105 luxury apartment homes, architecturally designed within TWO outstanding buildings, joined by superb-treed garden courts with fountains. Like new (only four months old — owner transferred), this particular third-floor CORNER apartment-home is located in Somerset House, WHICH IS THE BUILDING IN WHICH THE INDOOR-HEATED SWIMMING POOL AND THE BILLIARD ROOM ARE SITUATED. Other amenities include tudor library, tudor lounge, sauna, swirl pool, hobby and crafts room, full underground parking, and handy neighborhood shopping without leaving the complex. Frost-free fridge, range and continuous clean oven, and dishwasher included. As these units in Somerset House sold so quickly at the end of last year, this is a good opportunity for those who missed out, as well as for people now looking for SOMETHING SPECIAL in this price range. For appointment to view call ROBERT YOUNG 383-9898, or 388-6275 (pager 821) or 383-4124 anytime. Park Pacific Investments Ltd.

LAND

As a sometime resident of Victoria and vicinity for the past 35 years I've seen remarkable changes in property values. Buildings have had their ups and downs, mostly ups, but land, and particularly well-chosen land, has proven to be an amazingly stable and rewarding commodity. In this most favoured and pleasing part of the world, good land is almost certain to be one of the wisest investments one can make. BIKERS APPEAL

The Victoria Motorcycle Club will be given an opportunity June 21 to appeal a recent municipal decision denying the club permission to hold its annual hill climb in Mount Douglas Park.

A meeting of the joint Victoria-Saanich committee which administers the park has been set for that date, committee chairman Ald. Howard Sturrock of Saanich said.

Sturrock said the club plans to send a delegation to the meeting and he would like to see representation from other interested groups and citizens to provide the committee with a broad cross-section of views.

The June 21 meeting will be held in the main committee room at Victoria City Hall starting at 7:30 p.m.

Visual Telephone Ready for Deaf

OTTAWA (CP) — A visual telephone for the deaf is expected to be available for tests by fall and probably will be on the market by the end of the year, a Bell Northern Research spokesman says.

The Visual Ear is a portable keyboard, like a typewriter, into which a telephone handset can be placed. Above the keyboard is a space where the type-written message is displayed in a manner similar to the display on a small portable electronic calculator.

Both sender and receiver need a keyboard, Brenda Pighin of Bell Northern's publication department said Wednesday.

"To initiate a conversation, the caller lifts the handset from the regular telephone and locks it into the acoustic coupler of the Visual Ear, then dials the number on the telephone. An indicator on the display signals the progress of the call, such as dial tone, busy tone and ring-back tone.

"After the connection is established, conversation can commence by simply typing the desired message which will be displayed on both transmitting and receiving units."

At the receiving end, a flashing light shows the telephone is ringing and that that telephone is also linked to the acoustic coupler and the two can communicate by keyboard and display.

Currently, the only method of long-distance direct communication for the deaf is the teletypewriter which is linked to a special network known as the TTY.

"The deaf will be able to carry the machine around and use it with a public telephone," said Peter Welch, executive director of the Canadian co-Ordinating council on deafness.

But developing the device was only the frst step, Welch says. With a grant from the CTCA, the council plans to hire a deaf person to travel across the country to work with organizations involved with the deaf to help them become proficient with the machine.

The machine is expected to cost about $300.

The devices are expected to be built in a rehabilitation workshop by the deaf, eliminating major cost mark-ups by larger electronics firms, he said.

Trident Protesters Clogging Courts

BANGOR, Wash. (AP) — While protesters against the Trident nuclear submarine weapons system are heartened by their forays into the Trident base, a federal prosecutor says their insistence is putting pressure on the court system.

"Personally, I don't see the connection between their clogging the courts and nuclear disarmament," assistant Attorney General Jerry Diskin said Wednesday. "If they can explain that connection, I might be a little more sympathetic."

He had no exact figure of how much the protests at the base west of Seattle cost taxpayers, but said a 40-person protest last year for one day came to $49,000 for all federal agencies involved.

Kitsap County officials said the county had no costs, and Live Without Trident said it spent at least $10,000 into organizing it, much of that for printing costs.

Federal prosecutors on Monday bused 292 protesters to Tacoma and freed all but five, who were second offenders.

On Tuesday, nearly 300 demonstrators scaled the two metre fence around the base in an effort to publicize their fight against the Trident weapon system.

While even the protesters were impressed with their ability to put nearly 300 across the wire on Tuesday's repeat performance, many acknowledged their cause has yet to reach most Americans.

"When middle America says 'hell no, we won't do this' — that's when it (proliferation of nuclear weapons) will stop," said Jack Chalmers, 24, of Seattle.

Shelley Douglass, 33, a founder of the group Pacific Life Community, formed in opposition to Trident, said education was the key to building opposition to Trident. Anti-Trident forces would get the word to the public two ways — by "huge demonstrations, bigger than this one," and by sending speakers into the community.

Garth Homer Debt Cleared

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis presented a cheque for $360,000 to Gordon Butler, president of the Garth Homer Achievement Centre Society on Wednesday, wiping out the society's indebtedness.

The presentation, made at the annual meeting held in the new handicapped centre on Darwin, ends years of financial problems.

The money, which Curtis said was a donation from all the people of the province, brings the government's total contribution to $810,000 — 44 per cent of the entire project.

The opening of the centre a year ago was made possible through a personal $312,000 bank loan by four directors — Butler, Joe Bourque, Floyd Fairclough and another man who wishes to remain anonymous.

"It was a courageous move by very dedicated people," Curtis said.

A former Saanich mayor, Curtis said he had been involved with the society, formerly called the Greater Victoria Activity Society, for about a decade.

Executive director George Bate said the centre provides a full spectrum of recreational and rehabilitive services for the handicapped and is the focus for rehabilitation programs tailored to the needs and desires of individuals.

Cerebral Palsy Meet Set

The 25th annual general meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Association of British Columbia will be held Friday at the Garth Homer Achievement Centre, 813 Darwin.

The one-day meeting, attended by delegates, representing 15 member groups who serve the needs of 1,893 handicapped children in the province, will conclude with a speech by Minister of Health Bob McClelland at a dinner banquet at the Imperial Inn.

Earlier in the day delegates will tour the G.R. Pearkes Clinic and hold a four-hour symposium featuring addresses by Dr. Basil Bolton, chairman of the professional advisory committee of the G.R. Pearkes Clinic, Jim Killick, a counsellor at the Garth Homer Centre, and Dr. G.C. Robinson, professor in the paediatrics division at UBC's School of Medicine.

ANNUAL ARTS FESTIVAL EYED

Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf has formed an arts task force to study the feasibility of holding an annual international arts festival in Victoria.

The eight-member force headed by Gene Miller of Monday magazine also will look at the possibility of expanding arts education facilities in Victoria and will work with a Capital Region study looking into the need for a new performing arts centre in the capital city.

Bawlf said a spring arts festival could attract visitors to the city at that time of year.

Other members are Allan Purdy, president of the community arts council, Ald. Shirley Dowell of Oak Bay, Ald. Ron McKenzie of Victoria, Ken King of the Victoria Visitor's Information bureau, John Minshall of the B.C. Heart Foundation, Eric Charman, chairman of Pacific Realty, and lawyer Hugh Henderson.

Fire Chief For Saanich

Saanich deputy fire chief Art Fryer, a 28-year veteran of the department, will replace retiring Fire Chief Harold Gains.

Fryer's promotion, effective June 2, was announced Wednesday by Mayor Mel Couvelier.

The mayor said in a press release that Fryer's experience in all facets of the service, including ambulance work, would ensure the continuity of direction considered important by council.

$150,000 City Blaze

Two officials of the provincial Fire Marshall's office are investigating a fire which cause about $150,000 damage early today at the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Saanich fire chief Harold Gains said the blaze started in a storage room of a law office at 3490 Saanich Road.

Cause of the blaze is not known.

The fire was first noticed by a clean-up man in the Safeway store who turned in the alarm at 3.18 a.m.

Firemen were at the scene for more than four hours and had to cut through a ceiling to get at the fire.

"It was a hard fire to fight; the men did a terrific job stopping it," Gains said.

The offices of the law firm headed by lawyer Gary Tindall were gutted while the doctors' offices received damage from smoke and water when the searing heat burst a one-and-a-quarter-inch waterline in a false ceiling.

There was also some smoke damage to the Safeway store.

"It will probably take a couple of days to complete the investigation," said Gains.

"There's a lot of sifting to do."

SECRET MOVES 'ILLEGAL'

Income Tax Files Probed by RCMP

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has apparently violated the Income Tax Act and used confidential income tax information to investigate everything from suspicious lifestyles to unemployment insurance cheats, a royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing was told Wednesday.

Under a secret 1972 agreement with the national revenue department, the information given the RCMP was supposed to be used to prosecute organized crime targets under the Income Tax Act.

The agreement itself may have no legal basis, since the Income Tax Act prevents the revenue department from giving out such information. A March 3, 1978, analysis by Supt. J.V. Cain of the RCMP legal branch concludes that only an amendment to the Act can allow any such information to be given the RCMP legally.

The commission was told the RCMP definition of organized crime was so broad that it could include a husband and wife conspiring together to cheat on unemployment insurance.

The definition, used to select 900 "organized crime" targets, says: "Organized crime means two or more persons concerting together on a continuing basis to participate in illegal activities either directly or indirectly for gain."

However the agreement apparently was subject to broad interpretations within RCMP divisions across the country. Possible violations were reported by five divisions — Halifax, Fredericton, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg — as a result of a survey this year for the royal commission inquiry.

The key question in the survey was whether any information received under the agreement had been used for purposes other than enforcement under the Income Tax Act.

Some of the replies:

—RCMP in Truro, N.S., were told a man from Ontario was "living beyond his means and flashing a lot of cash around and was possibly involved in drugs." The revenue department supplied information that indicated "the subject was financially secure and eliminated suspicions as to source of funds." The information went to the RCMP drug squad in Truro.

—Ottawa RCMP got from the revenue department the address of a suspect in an attempted kidnapping. The information was given to the Cornwall police department, which was investigating.

—In Winnipeg, the RCMP criminal intelligence section was provided with revenue department information including a suspect's job record, income, taxes paid and wife's name for unspecified purposes.

—RCMP investigating a suspected unemployment insurance cheat in Toronto asked tax officials for his address.

Tennis Tourney Entries Close

A last-minute rush of entries saved the women's singles event in the Fifth Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament. But the junior girls weren't so fortunate.

When entries closed, there were 43 names in for the women's but only 11 for the girls (between 14 and 18 age group). We had set a minimum limit of 16 entries for each event in the summer-long tourney, so the girls' event had to be cancelled. However, to give the girls a game they had the option of joining the women's draw and this resulted in a field of 54, well up on last year's 32.

Biggest field again, of course, is in the mens' singles where there are a whopping 128 players competing.

Grocery Scanners A Matter Of Time. . .

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Price-scanners are on their way to Victoria supermarkets after successful test runs in Vancouver, Safeway relief district manager Rick Purnell said today.

"We don't have the timetable for Victoria yet but there is no doubt they will come fairly soon," he said.

The scanner experiment started at a North Vancouver Safeway in mid-April and in a Vancouver east supermarket on May 10.

"Both experiments have been successful," Purnell said. "The company is very pleased with the results."

Scanners use a laser beam to read parallel black lines on cans and boxes, telling the computer what the product is. The supermarket has coded the price, which can be changed as often as necessary, into the computer.

The big saving, Purnell said, will be an end to the time-consuming process of price-marking each item in the store.

"There were a lot of human errors in the process. Sometimes the wrong price gets pasted on. There might be punching errors by the cashier. We're all human."

The scanner, however, is not. It doesn't - at least it shouldn't - make mistakes.

It also eliminates jobs — those of the clerks who would have pasted on all the prices.

Purnell said Safeway will study the price-scanning experiments at the two Vancouver-area supermarket for several months before deciding when to have a test run in Victoria.

"It's just a matter of time."

A number of stores in eastern Canada, including the giant Steinberg's chain, are also experimenting with the new price checking system.

Meanwhile, in the United States, only 250 of the nation's 32,700 supermarkets have scanners but the number increases almost daily.

The cost in New York is $12,000 for each checkout point but the money is recovered in wages that no longer have to be paid out to price-markers.

Some U.S. consumer groups have protested the changes because prices are no longer on the product.

However, most supermarkets going into the system retain a price on the shelf so consumers know in advance how much they will pay. In addition, when they go to the cashier, the price of each product flashes on a screen and then a full printout goes to the customer showing the name of the product and what the price is.

"This should help clear up a lot of confusion when the customer gets home," Purnell said. "Under the present system the customer just has a lot of prices with the letters GR (for groceries) beside them."

While the Vancouver experiment has been judged a success, results in New York have been mixed. Some stores find service just as fast while others report it is a bit slower.

Supermarket spokesmen say service will speed up once cashiers become more familiar with the system.

One additional saving for supermarkets, a New York company spokesman said, will be the end of guesswork at the cash register.

He said if a cashier isn't sure of the price, she sometimes makes an estimate and it is usually on the low side to be fair to the customer.

This costs supermarkets a large amount of money over a year and this guesswork will be eliminated by scanners.

Reds Corner Market In Cobalt

LONDON (WP) — The Soviet Union has bought up a major share of the world supply of cobalt in recent months in apparent anticipation of a global shortage, according to dealers in the strategic metal here.

The shortage is now an accomplished fact. The abortive invasion of Shaba Province in Zaire has shut off 65 per cent of the world's cobalt supply for up to nine months. Cobalt is used in so-called super alloys required for jet engines, missiles and submarines.

All this year, dealers reported, the Soviets, Poles and East Germans have been "steady and substantial" buyers on London's free market. They got in well before the price rises of the past two months that have carried cobalt from $7 to $20 a pound, with more increases to come.

"They had a shrewd inkling of what was going to blow," said Luf Lubett, director of Ayrton and Partners and chairman of the Minor Metals Traders Association. "It was pre-emptive buying in expectations of a shortage."

In Washington, an administration source says there is increasing evidence that Cuban forces in Angola — already accused of training Katangan insurgents — encouraged and instigated the rebel invasion of Zaire's copper-rich Shaba province.

But the source would not elaborate and added: "We cannot make a categorical statement (proving the Cuban role)."

Earlier Wednesday, White House press secretary Jody Powell said the United States has gathered new evidence suggesting the rebels had been trained by Cuban forces. Cuba denies that role.

The free market in cobalt and other metals is small, with perhaps 20 dealers taking part. So information spreads rapidly.

Lubett's conclusion, however, is necessarily an opinion. Neither he nor the one or two dealers through whom the Soviets habitually buy know precisely how much

French Heading Home

PARIS (AP) — French Foreign Legion paratroops began their withdrawal from southern Zaire today, less than a week after recapturing the city of Kolwezi from invading rebels and aiding in the evacuation of trapped foreigners, the defence ministry announced.

Word of the withdrawal came on the heels of a Belgian proposal for an all-African peacekeeping force to ensure an uninterrupted flow of Zaire's mineral wealth to the West.

"We should find a Euro-African formula of protection to assure the security of our people working there," Premier Leo Tindemans told his parliament Wednesday.

"It could be done by the African states with logistic support of the nine members states of the European Economic Community," he said.

The French troops abandoned their pursuit of fleeing rebels Wednesday night, although five or six companies of rebel forces equipped with heavy weapons remained in an area about 10 kilometres west of Kolwezi, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, British newspapers reported today that rebels fleeing French paratroops clashed with Zambian forces Wednesday, but there was no sign of European hostages the rebels are believed to be holding.

A spokesman for the Congolese National Liberation Front, the political force behind the insurgents, said in Brussels they had captured seven French soldiers in their retreat from Kolwezi but denied reports they had seized white civilian hostages.

CLERK FOILS HOLDUP BID

An attempted robbery was foiled today when a counter clerk at Morley's Five-Point Pharmacy Ltd., 1273 Fairfield, called the bluff of two youths who claimed to have a gun.

Pharmacy manager Clair Morley said that a pair of juveniles entered his store about 11 a.m. and approached clerk Anne Straford who was at the counter.

"These two punks came in, about 16 or 17 years old, and one of them said 'My frind here's got a gun — give us all your money'."

Morley said instead of emptying the till, Stratford turned and called to him for help.

"I was in the basement and by the time I got there they'd taken off," said Morley.

He said Stratford never saw a gun and believes the whole thing was a bluff.

"It was a minor incident," he said. "But I'm glad it turned out the way it did."

Ginnell Goes To Lethbridge

Ginnell has been named to succeed Howie Yanosik as coach of Lethbridge Broncos of the Western Canada Hockey League.

Yanosik, who was with the Broncos just over one season, resigned his position earlier this month to return to private business.

Ginnell sold the Cougars, after a 3½-year stand, to Ray Harambourne last summer and took a "year off" from hockey. He opened a restaurant in the Cordova Bay area earlier this month.

Away on a fishing trip today, Ginnell was not available for commment but his wife, Wanda, said they haven't had time to decide if they will retain their business here.

In Lethbridge, Dennis Kjeldgaard, Bronco general manager, said he was looking for a coach who could make the Broncos a solid contender in announcing the acquisition of Ginnell, the fourth coach in five seasons since the Broncos moved to Lethbridge from Swift Current.

Ginnell started coaching in Flin Flon.

Bomb Scare Aborts Flight

CRANBROOK (CP) — RCMP here are investigating a bomb threat that forced a Pacific Western Airlines plane to return to Cranbrook Wednesday night after taking off on a flight to Vancouver.

Benchers Fight Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Law Society of British Columbia Wednesday asked the B.C. Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission from conducting an inquiry into the society's conduct.

The commission last week requested that the society hand over documents and files for the inquiry scheduled to begin Monday.

The commission also requested the society's files on B.C. Conservative leader Vic Stephens and lawyer Don Jabour, who were found guilty by the society of conduct unbecoming society members for advertising their legal practices.

The society, in challenging the authority of the Combines Investigation Act, has also asked for a court declaration that the act doesn't apply to the society, and a declaration that the society's secretary is under no obligation to appear at the inquiry or produce the requested documents.

Jabour has refused to consent to a decision made by a law society committee that he be suspended from practice for six months. Because Jabour refused to consent to the suspension, the punishment must be meted out by the law society benchers as a whole.

Pilot Kills Hijacker in Tussle

MARION, Ill. (AP) — A former Vietnam combat pilot wrestled a gun from a would-be hijacker and shot her to death while his helicopter reeled out of control 600 feet above the ground near the U.S. penitentiary at Marion.

Allen Barklage, 30, of St. Louis said Barbara Oswald, in her mid-40s, also of St. Louis, had ordered him to land Wednesday night in an exercise yard at the maximum-security prison where some of the most-dangerous criminals in the United States are confined.

He quoted her as saying they would be carrying off three convicts.

Barklage said the woman chartered the helicopter in St. Louis under the pretense of flying to Cape Girardeau, Mo., about 56 kilometres beyond the prison, which is about 150 kilometres by air southeast of St. Louis.

About 30 to 40 minutes into the flight, he said, she pulled a .44-calibre pistol and ordered him to fly to the prison.

About four kilometres from the prison, Barklage saw his chance.

"She was trying to open the doors and she switched her weapon from her left hand to her right hand," he said. "She put her finger on the trigger guard and not on the trigger."

"I let go of the helicopter controls and let it do whatever it wanted," he said. "I grabbed for the gun and we had a 10- or 15-second struggle."

The Bell Jetranger II helicopter was pitching and turning wildly, he said. It was so erratic, "that I shot four times—shot all five times but one misfired—and I only hit her once."

"And she was only two feet away from me."

Barklage righted the aircraft and set it down about 25 metres from the entrance to the prison administration building.

Carmela Costigan checks what she has to work with. It isn't much.

By the time Debra Morgan finished with Al, it was enough to curl his hair. He thought he was getting an oil change and lube job.

Holy Follicles, Al, Is That Really You?

It was time for a trip to the tonsorial parlor but this time reporter Al Forrest bypassed his regular barber in favor of the full-blown treatment. Here he lets his hair down and tells all about unisex.

"My God!" cried one woman.

Another tried to kiss me.

It was when I looked in the mirror, though, that I began to have doubts about my New Look. But by then it was too late to get my $55 back.

It was clear that, in some indefinable way, I would never be the same again.

The assignment was to find out what unisex is all about.

So I went down to Maison Georges at 9 a.m. Tuesday. And I stayed there until they called a halt at 11:20 a.m. It was obvious that was as gorgeous as I was going to get.

I learned that a beauty salon is not anything like a barber shop. For one thing a beauty salon smells better. For another, there is no time to read or to talk about last night's hockey game.

There are two women poised to do things to you and as soon as one is finished shampooing, the other is there with the hair blower. At one point both of them were putting curlers in my hair.

In charge of the production was Carmela Costigan.

"The ultimate in hair styling is the completely natural treatment," she explained. "After shampoo, the hair is styled with scissors and then dried from the warmth of the stylist's hands. I would run my fingers through your hair for two hours."

"Somehow," she said, "I don't think you're ready for the ultimate."

Second choice was a permanent, using the new computer-perm machine, followed by teasing and blow-drying.

"Will I look gorgeous?"

"Of course."

"How much?"

"How much gorgeous?"

"How much money? The cost?"

"It's nothing. A trifle," she said. "Look upon it as an investment."

"That much?!!"

"It is quite in order to come in and ask for an estimate," she said. "People should shop around."

"Fine," I said. "How much for a lube job and an oil change?"

Translated it came to a range of $12 to $15 for a scissors cut or a total of $40 with cut and permanent, using the computer-perm machine. Manicure was an extra $5 and hair-tinting added $10.

"So it's only $55, you see?"

I nodded. "A mere trifle."

Carmela's assistant, Debra Morgan, began the process by giving me a shampoo. It reminded me of when I was five years old but in beauty salons they do things mother would never have done. For one thing, you get to lie back in a very comfortable chair while the stylist washes and takes great care to avoid soap getting into the eyes.

None of that "Where's the towel, dammit!" that you hear around the house.

Then being whisked to the chair where Carmela begins the scissors cut.

"Hair isn't cut any more," she says. "It is styled . . . created . . . layered. A barber will grab hair and cut it all the same length. A stylist cuts it to different lengths so it forms layers. It creates the illusion of more hair. It may even encourage the hair to grow."

She studied my follicles.

"Some of these dormant ones may begin growing again with regular massage," she said.

She then said a lot of things about PH factors and acid balances and the next thing I knew she and Debra were putting me in curlers.

They set up the computer-perm machine.

"We feed your information into the machine," she explained, "and your hair will set in the precise length of time."

"What information?"

"Various things. Hmmm. Resistance level. Hmmm. Yes. Type? Dull, definitely dull."

"Oh, it's not that . . . "

"Shhh. Dull, yes, and you have virgin hair."

"Is that good?"

"It means never-been-tinted. We'll fix that. It should be a bit lighter. It will have more shine."

Seven minutes later the computer buzzed and I was whisked away to the shampoo room.

"What's happening now?"

"You're being neutralized."

"Oh. Will it hurt?"

"Only if you fall off the chair. Relax."

Then back to the main room to be styled. It was nearing the moment of truth.

"Just got back from London, Rome and Zurich," Carmela was saying. "Men's hair is defintely getting shorter. It's still being styled but the shorter look is on the way."

"Then I was already in fashion?"

"Not that short. Women's hair is becoming shorter, too. Those with long hair are turning to permanents at the end of the hair. It's called the halo effect."

"I'd like that."

"Shhh. We're just about finished. There. What do you think?"

"Who is it?"

Well, it seemed just fine inside Maison Georges but when I got outside all sorts of things began happening. Women turned. Men chuckled. Dogs barked.

Back at the office there was no end of jokes. "Who's the new girl? Can I have a date?"

There were all sorts of other problems. Like how to avoid the wind and the rain. And how to go to bed without putting my new hairdo on the pillow. I figure movie stars must sleep standing up.

—John McKay photos

City Woman Held In Trident Protest

The others — Tricia Mary-Moon of Victoria, Wendy Mitchell of Merville, Ben Hines, of Courtenay and Ian Jamieson of Powell River — were released on personal recognizance to appear next Thursday. All face charges connected with a mass protest against the Trident submarine base on Puget Sound.

Spokesman Ken Rowell of Victoria, who attended the demonstrations, said he was impressed with the orderly success of the campaign involving members of Pacific Life Community, Greenpeace, Life Without Trident and other groups banded together as the May 22 Coalition. Local participants were from the Vancouver Island Affinity Group.

The arrests, intended to clog the court systems of Seattle and Tacoma, were made without violence, although one member was "roughed up" by a U.S. marshal, Rowell said.

Those to appear next week will attempt to join 266 persons who will apply for a mass trial on charges resulting from the demonstrations.

CHASE ENDS IN ARREST

A 30-year-old Cobble Hill man will appear in court June 14 charged with impaired and dangerous driving following a motorcyle chase in Colwood late Wednesday.

The chase began when Colwood RCMP spotted the man, whose name has not been released, driving his motorcycle on Highway 1A without lights around 11:30 p.m. and tried to pull him over.

Camosun Contract Awarded

A contract to manage the $6 million Camosun College expansion project was awarded Wednesday to a Vancouver firm, Concordia Management.

Concordia's bid of $270,000 for the management project was selected by the college council from 18 estimates that started at $235,000 and went as high as $700,000. Farmer Construction was the only Victoria company to bid.

The bids varied widely because some of the firms have no experience in management work, councillor Pete Dorazio explained today.

He said the work, which will take place at the college's Lansdowne campus, should start at the end of the year, pending education ministry approval of the necessary funds.

The first phase of the project is a new multi-purpose bilding that will house administrative offices, classrooms, science laboratories, lounge and study areas.

Other work will include extensive renovations to existing buildings.

The entire project will take more than a year to complete, Dorazio said.

62 Laid Off at McDonald's But Only 10 Leaving City

Only 10 of 62 employees being laid off by McDonald's Bakery Friday will be leaving Victoria, Sidney Ald. Jim Lang said today.

Lang, chairman of a committee to arrange employment for the 62, said 30 either took early retirement or found jobs on their own while the remaining 32 have applied to his committee for assistance in finding work.

"Of this number only 10 have indicated they will leave Victoria. The other 22 are looking for work here and, of course, the ones taking early retirement are also staying."

The employees are being laid off because of a decision by McGavin Toastmaster, which bought the company five years ago, to close the baking division.

The plant at 524 Culduthel will continue to be used as a warehousing and distribution centre for McGavin.

There were 82 employees in all and the remaining 20 will have permanent work in warehousing activities there.

Lang said the employees being laid off will receive large cheques Friday and this will help to cushion the blow.

"They have been with the company a long time and the separation cheques are very good. None of them will be destitute. Some of them in their late 50s and early 60s are talking about taking early retirement and, maybe, getting part-time work later."

Lang's committee held meetings Tuesday night and Wednesday night and is canvassing employers today and Friday.

"There are a large number of marketable skills involved," Lang said.

There is general office staff, including accountants and receptionists, as well as mechanical maintenance employees and truck drivers.

The committee consists of representatives of management, union and Canada Manpower, with Lang as a neutral chairman.

Lang has worked in federal government job-creation programs.

The numbers released by Lang were confirmed by M.C. Currie, general manager of McDonald's. Currie said about half the employees being laid off have new jobs or are taking early retirement. A search is under way to find employment for the remainder.

Canada Manpower information officer Dan Bowes said the federal agency is conducting an extensive search across the city in hopes of finding jobs quickly.

Pay Hike Limit Set

Anti-inflation administrator William Oliver announced today in Ottawa that pay raises to six senior officers of the Victoria police force should be held to a maximum of $2,400 a year for three years plus six per cent to cover an additional nine months.

The pay settlement for the inspectors, represented by the Victoria Police Senior Officers Association, covers the period from April 1, 1975, to Dec. 31, 1978.

CALKINS NEW GVTA HEAD

Sid Langhelt was defeated Wednesday night in his bid for a second term as president of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association (GVTA).

Langhelt leaves the full-time post July 1 and returns to a teaching job in the district.

Also elected to the executive were Margaret MacKenzie for a second term as first vice-president and Monty Bryant, second vice-president.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in active mid-afternoon trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.5 million shares compared with 2.82 million at the same time Wednesday.

Great-West Life Assurance Co. rose ½ to a new high of $98 a share on the sale of 2,281 shares following its opening resumption. Investors Group has announced it will proceed with an offer for all remaining shares at $100 a share. It holds a 50.1 per cent interest.

Block Bros. Industries Ltd. climbed 1½ to $8½ a share on 4,600 shares after resuming at the opening following news that Olympia and York Developments Ltd. will offer $9 a share for all outstanding shares.

Among other industrials, Combined Insurance Co. of America shot up 2½ to $20¼ on the sale of 550 shares, General Motors 1⅛ to $67⅝, Great Lakes Paper 1 to $30½, Power Corp. A ¼ to $16½ and Canadian Pacific Ltd. ⅛ to $19¼.

Dome Petroleum dropped ¾ to $59⅞, Consolidated-Bathurst A ¾ to $27¼, Falconbridge Nickel A ⅝ to $24, Extendicare ½ to $11¼ and Texaco Canada ½ to $38.

Campbell Chibougamau Mines A rose ½ to $6¾, Lacana Mining ⅜ to $7⅜ and Rio Algom ⅜ to $31¾. Gibraltar Mines fell ¼ to $5⅜ and Hudson Bay Mining A ¼ to $17¾.

Sceptre Resources advanced ¾ to $9, Siebens Oil and Gas ⅜ to $27⅞ and Asamera Oil ⅜ to $14⅝. Numac Oil and Gas slipped ⅞ to $34⅞ and Czar Resources ½ to $21.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices stabilized today, ending two days of selling that deflated the Dow Jones average 17.50 points.

Experts said the sharp drop in prices Tuesday and Wednesday was normal as investors cashed in recent gains. But analysts added that while the market stopped falling, it still is edgy about inflation and higher interest rates. Investors were worried about the weekly money supply figure that the Federal Reserve Board planned to release today after the close of the market, brokers said. That could provide a clue about future levels of inflation and steps the central bank may take to curb rising prices by tightening credit.

Topping the New York Exchange's most-active list was Reliance Group, which was ahead ⅜ to $32¾. American Motors was the next most heavily traded issue, rising ¼ to $6.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were slightly higher in moderate afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 261,600 shares, compared with 454,000 shares traded up to the same time Wednesday. Walker A climbed ¼ to $33¼, Noranda A ⅛ to $28, Provincial Bank of Canada ⅛ to $15 and Brascan A ⅛ to $16⅜. Kaiser Resources fell ⅛ to $14½ and Inco A ¼ to $20¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Rising industrial issues sent the London stock market moderately higher Today near the close of light trading. The Financial Times index was up 4.8 to 478.8 an hour before the close. Higher-than-expected first quarter results sent many industrials into an advance, while gold shares declined. Canadian issues eased.
